

Use your Parent Power!

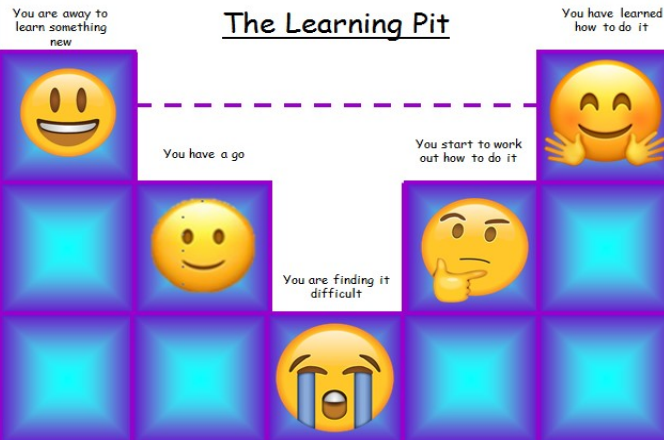

'Support your child's learning using the shared language of learning powers'

What are Learning Powers?

Meet our Super Emojis! They are characters which provide children with different learning powers. These powers give children the tools to be successful in their learning.

The Learning Pit

What is the learning pit?

A visual aid to support children in discussing where they are in their learning journey. When children learn something new they may go into the learning pit but with the help of the Super Emojis they can overcome challenges to experience deep learning.

What you might see?

To help promote our shared language of learning, your child may come home with stickers, brag tag bracelets or certificates. You can use these as a starting point for discussions with your child.

What did you learn today?

Which Super Emoji were you like today? Why?

How did you improve your learning?

What can you say?

Captain Concentrate  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> managing distractions getting lost in the task doing one thing at a time breaking things down planning and thinking through drawing diagrams and jotting down thoughts to help me think 	The Incredible Improver  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> always reviewing my work taking small steps identifying the best bits improving one thing first trying to be better than the last time not comparing myself to others only myself
Doctor Don't Give Up  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> practising lots keeping on going trying new strategies asking for help starting again taking a brain break 	Green Growth Guy  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> having a growth mindset not worrying if it goes wrong learning from mistakes being excited to try new things
Curious Catwoman  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> asking questions noticing things looking for patterns and connections thinking of possible reasons researching 	Iron Imagination Man  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> being creative letting my imagination go thinking up new ideas and questions
Agent Enjoyable  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> feeling proud of my achievements feeling my neurons connecting imagining my intelligence growing by the minute using what I learn in real life knowing I can do it if I practise 	Group Girl  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> listening to others saying when I don't understand being kind when I disagree explaining things to help others being tolerant

