

From mountain to sea

Educational Psychology Service

Mapping your Stress

Although we all recognise the physical signs of the fight or flight stress response, how we as individuals cope with stress varies. The grid below is designed to help you think about how you and your body respond and how Mindfulness might be able to help you manage these responses. The indicators in the boxes may not be yours – you may like to generate your own map.

