

Turtles to the Rescue

By

Tyler Maxwell

Turtles save the Earth

Earth was under attack by the Triceratons. The whole planet was being destroyed. Moments before total destruction, a strange alien called a Fugitoid arrived to save the turtles, April and Casey Jones and safely take them into space. The Fugitoid was originally a human named Professor Honeycutt, before his mind transplanted into a robot body. The turtles had never seen anything like it before.

Now they must go back in time to find the 3 pieces of the black hole generator in order to save the world.

The Fugitoid had a surprise for the turtles and their friends – space suits!! They could not wait to take their very first space walk. It didn't go to plan. Space boulders or asteroids were coming towards them. They darted back into the ship and the Professor steered the space ship out of harms way. They stopped at Planet Varanon which was home to space pirates, thieves and smugglers. They had to be careful. There was strange creatures all over the place!

Unknown to the turtles, they were being watched by the Triceratons. They had the black hole generator which was being used to destroy anything. The turtles needed to find these as soon as possible. They searched everywhere, in all the buildings, vehicles etc Suddenly as they walked through a door, they felt a funny feeling. Something was happening to them.

Finally the Turtles had went back in time once more to take the final battle to the Triceratons!