Monday 11th March

After a hard day at school, I decided to have an early night. As I was lying on my bed looking at the moon and the stars, I wondered what it would be like to go to space.

Suddenly I felt myself floating into space with my dog, Beetle, at my side. We passed Saturn and the rings, and the red planet Mars.

Earth was thousands of miles behind us. It looked very small. I got too near the Sun but I decided it was too hot that I had to come away from it or it would have burnt both of us. Next we floated to Venus because it was very bright and attractive and then

Then we went to visit Mercury because it was bright and beautiful and hot + boiling and I very terrified when I touched it - was very hot - Then I hit earth

Then I went back to bed. Then I was dreaming about space. Then I suddenly woke up at two o'clock in the morning.
