As Covid-19 restrictions have now eased, we are looking for ways to welcome parents back in to our nursery setting, most recently starting out our peep sessions. We realise, however, that this isn't always practical for everyone. We would be grateful if you could provide some ideas to further involve yourselves in the life of the nursery so that we can further recognise the important part you play in child/children's development and learning.

More sessions after school or even throughout the day times where parents/carers can come into nursery and be involved in an activity.

Loved the session and looking forward to more sessions throughout the year.

I would love to attend a stay and play and allow my child the opportunity to show what she has been talking about at home.

More entry's to learning journals as feel like other schools in area update more regularly and would like to see what my child gets up to during nursery

Fun mornings. (Summer helping with planting or growing vegetables, winter making decorations for Halloween Christmas) Getting parents involved in the baking mornings that happen for snack once a week. Outdoor walks with parent volunteers. Extra peep sessions available at different times I.E two different days or one during school hours.
