INTRODUCING... ARTICLE 12

RESPECT FOR CHILDREN'S VIEWS

Martin introduces Article 12 – Respect for the views of the child

Every child has the right to express their views, feelings and wishes in all matters affecting them, and to have their views considered and taken seriously.

This right applies at all times, for example during immigration proceedings, housing decisions or the child's day-to-day home life.

WHAT DO YOU NEED TO BE HEARD?

What sort of things
need to happen if you are to get your voice heard properly?

What would help you?
What should adults
do?

Write them down
and then compare your answers with the next slide.

HOW MANY OF THESE DID YOU GET?

- Being properly listened to
- Information about the situation so that you can comment properly
- Help to communicate your ideas if you need it
- An invitation or opportunity to give your views in a way that works for you
- Feed-back so that you know your views have been heard
- Feeling that your voice counts
- Trusting that you can speak honestly even if your opinion is different from many others
- Believing that your opinion is welcome and respected

ACTIVITY TIME

All these activities are related to...

You don't need to do every single activity but if you have time you can do more than one.

Can you think of any stories or films in which children's voices are really listened to and it makes a difference? If you think of one, tell somebody about it.

In some stories children's views are ignored. Have you read 'Not Now Bernard!'? If not watch this story. What would you say to Bernard's parents if you had the chance?

Design a poster for display about the importance of Article 12.

ACTIVITY TIME

Have you ever thanked people at home who are good at listening to you? Design a card or picture, or write a letter to thank them for hearing your voice.

Find out about a child or young person who made sure their voice was heard. You could choose Malala Yousafzai or Greta Thunberg or see if you can find out about somebody less well known.

REFLECTION

Spend a few minutes thinking about these questions.

- Try to find somewhere quiet for a few minutes, sit comfortably and be as still as you can... just try to relax... and listen to the sounds, within your body, close by and further away.
- How does it feel when you know that an adult has really listened to you?
- How can we show our appreciation and why is this important?
- How can we respect other people's right to have their voice heard? Even when we disagree?
- Ask yourself – what could I do to make my voice stronger? What should I really speak up about? How can I do this?

Write down your answers or talk to people in your home.
