

Religious, Moral and Philosophical Studies/Psychology

Mr Neilson-Bell, Mrs Neilson-Bell (PTG)

RMPS is the study of religion, morality and philosophy. Its aim is to develop knowledge and skills in analysis and higher order thinking. Topics are chosen in line with Curriculum for Excellence and National courses to provide young people with the opportunity to investigate what people think and evaluate that against their own beliefs.

Topics studied include “Life after Death or not?”, “Introduction to Buddhism”, “Creation Stories from around the World”, “Medical Ethics” and “Philosophy”.

Courses currently offered within the department include:

National 3 RMPS
National 4 RMPS
National 5 RMPS
Higher RMPS
Religion, Belief and Values Award
National 4 People in Society
Higher Psychology (S6 only)

Careers :

Primary Teaching
Police
Army
Social Work
Psychologist