Lochnorris Primary School Month: January 2026

Class: P7

Writing - Scots

Burns Night is on the 25th of January.
Research as many Scots words as you can, write these down with their definitions.

Now write two paragraphs using Scots only.

Scottish Poetry Performance

Start learning 'Address to a Haggis' by Robert Burns for the school Scots competition.

It is a long one so don't worry if you can't remember it all of by heart! I am looking for you to try your best & recite the poem with appropriate volume, lots of expression and some gesture. I know you can do it as I have seen what you are all capable of during our drama activities! 😊

Judging will be Thursday 5th February.

New Year - New Me

Every year people make New Year resolutions.
Talk to someone at home about your new year resolutions - what do you plan to work on inside school and outside school?

(Think improving confidence, going to bed earlier, getting fitter)

What are your New Year resolutions and how will you stick to your new goals?

Numeracy

Practise multiplying and dividing by 10, 100 and 1000:

ICT

Show me that you can login to Glow independently by replying to my email! 😊

Reading

Spend some time reading for enjoyment. This could be from your own book or a book on EPIC (class code - iap9877)

Writing - Response

This term we are looking at response type writing.
Watch a film and write four paragraphs covering these points:

1. What did you like best about the film?
(characters, plot, music, acting)
2. What do you think the film missed and could improve on to make it better?
3. How would you change the ending of the film?
4. Provide a recommendation for the film.
Remember to rate it and provide a target audience.

World of Work

In January, we explore the different jobs people do in everyday life and start to think about our own possible career paths.

Write down 10 jobs you can think of.

Now research the following points:

- What training/qualifications are required for this job
 - Typical hours worked
 - Annual Salary/earnings per hour

P.E

This term we are developing our skills at Basketball.

Practise your dribbling and passing with someone at home.
