Purple Activities- oi phoneme

The class was silent. Not a single noise could be heard as the teacher announced,

'I am extremely annoyed!'

The pupils could detect the disappointment in her voice as it resounded around the room. The groups had just been invited to make a choice and enjoy the day's tasks. The teacher's ill-temper was most annoying.

However, it came to light that an incident had occurred in the toilet. Someone had destroyed the taps and they had become disjointed from the sink. Why would anyone wish to destroy the facilities? What was the point of that?

Meanwhile an investigation was underway. Pupils joined in to give information. It wasn't long before a boy was identified as being the person responsible. He had been pointed out. When confronted, his eyes became moist with tears. He knew he had destroyed school property and that men would now need to be employed to repair the disjointed taps.

Hopefully a lesson will be learned that, acts of vandalism affect everyone and cause upset and expense.

What a very silly boy! He had definitely made a wrong choice!
