Listening and Talking—Tell a Group Story

The first person starts a story with one sentence. Then the next person adds onto the story, and it continues until everyone has contributed at least one sentence to the story. (For smaller groups, you can go around two or three times). This requires listening to what has already been said and making connections, as well as working together as a group.

Reading - Read a book on Bug Club and remember to answer the bugs.

Writing—Listen to the story, The Shopping Basket by John Burningham

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=CUaztwESqfA&app=desktop>

Write a shopping list like Steven's. Use the phonemes you hear in the words to write down what you need!

Read stories in a cosy corner, in the garden, on the sofa, or anywhere!!

Talking and Listening—Share a talent for Dee. Send her a 10 sec clip of you dancing, singing, doing gymnastics or showing off a skill!

What are they saying?

Writing—Do you remember what each animal said in the story, The Shopping Basket? Write what they said in a speech bubble.

Explore the digraph 'ai' (ay) (as in rain, brain, train) on Big Club. Have a go at some of the activities in the lesson.

When two vowels go walking, the first one does the talking
