

The discovery of the hidden temple of the sun god Ra by Kerr

A long, long time ago a team of explorers were sent to Egypt and told to discover everything and anything that they found.

In Egypt it was very, very dusty and sandy for miles. There was nothing but a feeling they might find something, and they started to run low on food and water. After months and months of finding nothing and almost starving a few times they found an ancient temple that looked like it had been abandoned for centuries.

After half an hour searching around the temple the oldest explorer Tyler decided to enter the ancient temple.

The team entered the ancient temple, and they saw a rusted old statue made of gold. It was very dark and spooky it felt like you were being watched the whole time. The statues were the ancient sun god of Ra who was believed to have created the four seasons and the underworld, Earth and heaven. The explorers got the feeling something was about to happen.

The team could see a door in the distance, so they didn't go that way, they went into the corner of the room where there was an ancient scroll. The scroll said $\beta\acute{\alpha}\omega\Delta\geq\times\grave{\epsilon}\tilde{\rho}\tilde{\rho}\Sigma$ that meant there is a hidden gem in the temple.

Suddenly the whole team started to say, "Where where is the treasure?" the leader said.

"Calm down would you."

"Ok," said the rest of the team.

Tyler saw a pile of rocks in the distant corner, so he went over and shouted to the rest of the team “Come help me move these rocks. I think there's something behind them.”

So, two other explorers went over and started to clear the big rocks, and no one would believe what the explorers found underneath. They found a lever.

Tyler pushed and pushed but the lever wouldn't budge so everyone started to push and then the lever moved. The chains to the big metal door fell and with a screech and a scratch on the sand the door flew open.

The team cautiously walked through the door. In the corner of the big room there was a diamond.

“Should we touch it? Should we? Should we?” said most of the team.

“Yeah, why not?” said Tyler.

So, they touched the diamond and with a bang and a bright flash the room was set on fire, and the walls started to enclose on them and cobras came through the wall. Suddenly a cobra struck at one of the explorers and he turned into a cobra and started to attack the rest of the explorers.

“Run!” said Tyler “and I’ll fight the rest.”

So that's what they did, and they didn't stop. When they got out of the temple they ran and ran back to Scotland and then took it to a local museum. As for Tyler, he's probably still fighting cobras. So, the other explorers send food and water to Egypt hoping Tyler gets the gifts.

You have included:

- Paragraphs
- Connectives to join sentences
- An exciting opening to hook the reader
- Interesting and descriptive vocabulary to describe setting

- Interesting and descriptive vocabulary to create atmosphere
- A plot structure (beginning, build up, problem, resolution and ending)
- Speech marks to show dialogue.
- Sentences that start in different ways.

Next time:

- Try to include similes to level up your descriptions

This is the best piece of writing you've written Kerr! Keep up this standard.