

The discovery of the haunted pyramid by Isla

One sunny evening at 5pm on the camp lodge balcony there was a 10-year-old girl. Her name was Charlotte, and she was looking at the sunset... but she got bored, so she looked at her phone's map and she saw a pyramid.

It was close by, so she ran for it. When she got there it was spooky, and she saw a hole at the top of the pyramid. It was abandoned and lots of bats flew out when she got in. It was so sandy and dark.

She was concerned. She turned around but then the door slammed shut. So, she looked around and she saw hieroglyphics, a tomb for a Pharaoh, a sheet of paper that looked so old and torn and a lever. Then she ran for it and tripped over a skeleton foot and hit her head on a rock. Five minutes later she woke up and used the lever to help her get up and accidentally pulled it and opened a new door.

In the new room there were lots of fangs, unformed eggs and old scales. On the other side of the room there was a shiny diamond that had a hole above and it had light coming through the top.

She ran to the hole and tried to get up, but she couldn't, and she stepped on the diamond and the ground started to shake and grumble. The floor burst into fire and cobras came out of the holes and she shouted for help! Then she dashed to the other side where there was a door, but a snake jumped at her, and she managed to dodge it in time before the door closed and she escaped. Then she ran home.
