A message from Mrs Johnston

Dear Barrhead,

Over the last couple of months, the world has changed for all of us and you are doing a magnificent job of adapting. I would like to thank you for all your support and hard work since we have returned to school. You have had to follow new routines, limit your socialising, wash your hands several times a day, brave the weather during PE, wear face coverings and stay in school at breaks to name a few of the changes! You have done all this to keep our community safe. When I ask how your day is, you ask me how my day is. When I ask what we can do to help, you have asked how you can help. This is what makes Barrhead a special place, we are a team. We have to continue to listen to each other, be kind and do the best we can every day. I am looking forward to getting to know all the learners at Barrhead and working together to make sure that you all achieve and have the opportunities you deserve in life. Have a relaxing break over the holiday weekend and stay safe.

Fun fact: The small Scots town of Bonnybridge has become the UFO capital of the world.

Positive Quote: "Look for something positive in each day, even if some days you have to look a little harder."

This week's puzzle: Voiceless it cries,
Wingless flutters, Toothless bites,
Mouthless mutters.
