

Emotion Poems

Today we are going to combine our senses with using similes to help describe an emotion. Use the examples and the steps below to help you create your own super poem 😊.

1. Choose an emotion eg – love, happiness, sadness, anger, nervousness, hate, shock, frightened.
2. Follow the magic steps below to create a super poem – be creative!!

- What colour is your emotion?
- What does it sound like?
- What does it smell like?
- What does it taste like?
- What does it look like?
- What does it feel like?

Five Senses Poem

Anger is red.

It tastes like red chili peppers flying from ear to ear.

It sounds like nails on a chalkboard.

It smells like glue on my bed.

It looks like a demon with a fire on his head.

It makes me feel ferocious.
