

Primary 1-3 Class:

Welcome to the last class blog of the year! Now hasn't that come round quickly.... I just don't know where all the time goes!

We have been thinking about school memories this week and how we've grown over the last twelve months. Here we are in height order!

Grown-ups – this is one for the album!

Lighthouses:

It seems such a shame to send our lighthouses home – although the children have been keen to take them for some time now! Just one last photo to remind ourselves...

....and I haven't forgotten about our trip to Scalpay Light! The weather has been rubbish!

We will re-schedule for next term and hopefully we will get some decent sunshine to enjoy a walk out to the light!

Ceilidh Dancing:

We had a very enjoyable time at the start of the week. We enjoyed some ceilidh dancing – all of us together! We were even joined by some of the secondary, who couldn't resist some participation with the primary!

Well done everyone! Same time next year?

Feis Afternoon Tea:

We popped along to the Feis afternoon tea and were delighted to be shown to our seats and given refreshments!

What a smashing event in the last week of term!

Even Mrs. Mackinnon managed a mouthful of cake!

Awards:

It's that time of year when we make two awards! Worker of the term and a worker of the year prize. Unfortunately, I have been experiencing problems with delivery (I have not used Amazon this time!) I fear our prizes will arrive sometime next week, which is very annoying! However, doesn't that make August worth coming back for?

George Jardine has worked consistently hard all year across the curriculum and was very deserving of the worker of the year!

Robert Stark gets our worker of the term prize. Over this last term he has started on reading books, he can spell quite a number of tricky words and learned how to subtract!

Very well done to both boys!

See you next term! Have a great holiday everyone!
