History

Some historical facts

The Vikings were also known as Norse men because they came from the North.

The first type of castles were called Motte and Bailey castles and made from wood.

King Alexander III of Scotland died in 1286 and his only direct descendent was his granddaughter, Margaret the Maid of Norway.

After the death of the Maid of Norway on her journey over to Scotland, 13 men came forward and said they had a claim to become the next king.
