The Photo I have chosen above is a photo of my great aunt and her class at Holyrood Secondary in 1945. This photo appeals to me because it is part of my family history and will be able to be passed down through generations of people to remember her by. This is probably different to what other people would choose but I think that it is always important to keep your family and where you have come from close to heart.

I also find this photo quite intriguing because it shows how much the area I have grown up in has evolved since this photo was taken. (unfortunately I couldn't find the year this photo is from) Another reason I find this photo quite interesting is because not only does this photo show the change in area but also people, nowadays mothers would not let their young children play on the road but then they did. This also shows the change in vehicles and technology as there are no cars on the road but only trams and horses and carts. This photo is an example of a wonderful snapshot in time.
