

STEM Award

This award recognises early learning and childcare settings and schools that have developed a vibrant and progressive culture and climate of continuous innovation in relation to sciences, technologies, engineering and mathematics (STEM).

The culture and ethos of establishments nominated for this award category should promote respect, ambition and achievement in STEM while improving outcomes for all learners in ways which eliminate inequity.

Are you or do you know an early learning and childcare centre or school that can respond to the statement above and in detail to the questions below?

Submit your nomination before 6pm on Thursday 14 February
Visit www.scottisheducationawards.co.uk

Nominations should provide detail about all the practical activities and programmes that the school or centre has undertaken:

- How are these being embedded across the four contexts for learning?
  - Ethos and life of the school as a community
  - Curriculum areas and subjects
  - Interdisciplinary learning
  - Opportunities for personal achievement
- How are you promoting equity, equality, diversity and inclusion in relation to this award category?
- What impact are your approaches having on learners, staff, their families, partner organisations, other educational establishments and the wider community?
