Introduction

Welcome from the Vice Principal

The soon-to-be Royal Conservatoire of Scotland is an inspiring and special place in which to learn.

It is special not only because our graduates go on to work and perform across the globe, but because we make our world-class resources available to Scotland's young people, adult learners and arts professionals.

We believe that everyone should have access to the performing and production arts, no matter what age and stage they are at in their development. Our teaching staff, venues and learning activities are in place to support the short courses described in this portfolio for 2011/12.

The imagination and creativity of our tutors combined with the energy of our students make this a dynamic and vibrant place to work and study.

We would be delighted for you to join us at this special time as we become the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland and better reflect our position as one of the leading providers of outstanding, specialist learning in the performance and production arts in Europe.

Professor Maggie Kinloch FHEA FRSA
Vice Principal

Our Short Courses

All our short courses benefit from the same standards of excellence as our undergraduate and postgraduate programmes.

We aim to:

- Set and meet the highest standards for creative learning
- Evolve a curriculum framework that supports freedom, variety and quality approaches to creative teaching and learning
- Employ staff and tutors that care for and are interested in our students as individuals

What We Offer

Our short course programme includes a range of different course types that provide a variety of experiences for our students. Each course type is described below. Please see corresponding pages for detailed information.

Weekly Classes (pages 8, 9 and 22)

We run a busy programme of weekly drama classes for children, young people and adults throughout the year. The courses are based on a set curriculum to ensure that we cover a wide range of skills and provide opportunities to develop technique and expertise.

Throughout the year our students have the chance to share and perform work created for invited and public audiences.

The courses are programmed over four terms within the academic year meaning a commitment of 32 weeks of classes in total.

Intensive Weekends (pages 10 – 12)

Our intensive weekends are an opportunity to try something completely new or focus on developing specific skills.

They are an intensive introduction to specialist areas and are delivered by our teaching staff or industry partners.

These weekends are usually ten hours over two days.

Evening Classes – Ten-Week (page 13)

Our evening classes offer an introduction to highly specialised areas of the performing and production arts.

They provide an opportunity to develop an understanding and skills-base through exploration, experimentation and group work.

Audition and Interview Preparation (page 14)

Our audition and interview preparation courses are aimed at people who are in the process of applying to further education and higher education establishments, and cover acting, musical theatre and production arts.

The courses are designed to lead you through a thorough process of material selection and preparation so that you feel confident for auditions and interviews.

Summer Schools (page 15, 16 and 23)

Our extensive programme of summer schools runs throughout the months of July and August. It offers access to our teaching staff, rehearsal spaces and professional venues.

The courses for young people provide a challenging and creative experience, and the opportunity to meet others with similar interests.

The courses for adults are ideal for anyone wishing to pursue training in the performing and production arts, and also give a feel for what full-time study with us is like. They are also suitable for anyone who wants to immerse themselves in an inspiring creative learning experience.

Continuing Professional Development: For Teachers and Industry Professionals (pages 26 – 27)

Our education training events are designed to benefit teachers working in schools delivering A Curriculum for Excellence. They are usually one day CPD activities exploring key areas relating to performance or production arts.

Our industry and film training events are designed for creative professionals already working in the arts who seek refresher or new learning experiences in highly specialised subject areas. These events usually last one day.

Weekly Classes for Children and Young People

Primary Classes (by year group)

Primary students attend classes for two hours each week on a Saturday or Sunday. The course covers many different types of drama with the aim of encouraging creative thinking and developing communication skills.

Lower Secondary Classes (by year group)

S1 to S3 students attend classes for four hours a week on a Saturday or two hours on a Sunday.

All students take a core class that explores drama in its many forms. Saturday students follow this with a two-hour elective class in a specialism of their choice.

Upper Secondary Classes (by year group)

S4 to S6 students attend classes for five hours a week on a Saturday or two hours on a Sunday.

All students take a core class that focuses on developing theatre-making and performance skills. Saturday students follow this with a three-hour elective class in a specialism of their choice.

Lower and Upper Secondary Electives

Secondary students study their chosen elective subject for the full year, developing specialist skills and experience.

The elective class options for 2011/12 are:

- Devised Performance
- Film and Performance
- Technical and Production Arts (S4 to S6 only)
- Text-based Performance
- Musical Theatre

“The atmosphere is not one I have found anywhere else. It’s fun, exciting and full of energy! I felt accepted the moment I walked through the door and that was largely down to the amazing people who work there. I have made lifelong friends and it’s inspired me to do much more in drama.”

Weekly Classes for Adults

Core Skills

Tuesdays/Thursdays
6.30 – 8.30pm

This course focuses on sustained and gradual development by leading students through the key areas of Devising and Movement, Character and Text and Performance. The aim is that students grow steadily as performers and establish a firm grounding in the essential skills of drama and performance.

Performance Skills

Tuesdays 6.30 – 8.30pm

This course focuses on challenging students’ abilities and experience of performing.

Throughout the course students will explore Character and Text, Performance and Acting upon Direction alongside Devising and Movement Techniques. The course aims to challenge and stretch students’ performance in new directions.

Performance Styles

Thursdays 6.30 – 8.30pm

This course will develop students’ knowledge and experience of the ideas and practice that lie behind some of the most influential (classical and contemporary) genres. The course aims to widen students’ understanding and skills in different types of performance.

Performance for Production

Thursdays 6.30 – 8.30pm

This course gives students the opportunity to apply skills developed in our other adult drama courses in the context of a production. The group will create a Text-based Production from September to December, and then a Devised Production from January to June. The course aims to build students’ performance experience.

Drama For Over 60s

Sundays 2 – 4pm

This stimulating course is an opportunity to develop performance skills, meet new people, and improve physical and mental health.

Students engage in a variety of activities to create performance material, bringing their own experiences, stories and ideas to the process. The course aims to provide a relaxed environment in which to explore ideas and be creative.

(Drama for Over 60s term dates are the same as the Youth Weekly Classes on page 8)

Musical Theatre

8 and 9 October 2011

An energetic weekend focusing on the skills needed to successfully interpret and perform musical theatre material. Students will explore acting, singing, voice and dance techniques, and engage in the storytelling powers of musical theatre.

Zombie Make-up

22 and 23 October 2011

This fun weekend covers the basics of creating zombie make-up for stage and screen. Led by an experienced make-up artist, students will explore techniques for designing and applying make-up for a zombie character of their own.

Audition Preparation

11 – 13 February 2012

This intensive course aims to build confidence and develop understanding of the audition and interview process. Focusing on acting, voice and movement techniques, students will explore how to select and prepare an audition piece suited to their strengths as a performer.

First Steps in Screenwriting

11 and 12 February 2012

This practical course is a basic introduction to the art of scriptwriting for film, taking students through the process step by step. Students will explore the creation of narrative and character in order to gain a better understanding of what a script is and how it is transferred from paper to screen.

Performing Shakespeare

14 and 15 April 2012

This challenging course introduces practical exercises that increase understanding of Shakespeare's language, explore character development and help students engage with the text in a meaningful way. Students will encounter speeches and scenes from various plays and learn how to bring text alive.

Acting

(Contemporary Scottish Theatre)

26 and 27 May 2012

This intensive weekend aims to develop acting ability, focusing on plays written by contemporary Scottish playwrights. Students will work through a range of exercises to explore acting techniques, improvisation and text analysis, and have the opportunity to rehearse and perform selected scenes.

"The course was different and exciting. I loved making new friends and the tutors made learning about drama fun. It was the highlight of my term!"

Hours	Saturday 10am – 5pm Sunday 11.30am – 4.30pm Monday 10am – 5pm* (*Audition Preparation only)

*Acting (Contemporary Scenes)

8 and 9 October 2011

Focusing on contemporary texts this course will delve into the art of acting and challenge students to perform to the best of their ability. Individual and group activities will guide students through established acting methodologies and techniques, expanding their repertoire of rehearsal tools.

*The Actor's Voice

22 and 23 October 2011

The core techniques used in this intensive course are rooted in the work of Nadine George (Voice Studio International), our International Fellow in Voice. In a small group students will explore massage, breathing and relaxation, connection to breath and focus, sung tone and classical Greek text.

Physical Theatre

22 and 23 October 2011

This course is an opportunity to develop the creative skills required for physical performance. Practical exercises will be used to get students thinking about how to use their body to communicate meaning, story and relationships in new and challenging ways.

*Performing Shakespeare

12 and 13 November 2011

This intensive course aims to help students get to grips with Shakespeare's language, and uses practical exercises to increase understanding and confidence. Students will explore verse and prose, character development and staging options, working towards engaging with text in a creative way.

*Acting through Song 1

26 and 27 November 2011

This energetic course is an introduction to the challenges of musical theatre, and aims to get students engaging creatively with contrasting material. Practical exercises will be used to develop skills required to successfully interpret musical theatre material including character development and singing skills.

*Devising Musical Theatre

3 and 4 December 2011

This challenging course explores how to create original musical theatre material. Students will be lead through established devising techniques, exploring how to develop characters, story and song. The emphasis will be on using students' ideas and experiences as a starting point for creating new material.

*Acting through Song 2

10 and 11 December 2011

This energetic course focuses on the first steps towards selection of musical theatre material for audition. Students will be encouraged to reflect on their own strengths and interests, and learn how to choose appropriate monologues and songs.

Audition Preparation

11 - 13 February 2012

This intensive course aims to build confidence and develop understanding of the audition and interview process. Focusing on acting, voice and movement techniques, students will explore how to select and prepare an audition piece suited to their strengths as a performer.

Writing for Performance

11 and 12 February 2012

This practical course is aimed at performers who are interested in creating original performance. Working individually and in small groups, students will explore a variety of contemporary processes which can be used to generate and develop new text for performance.

Mask and the Actor

11 and 12 February 2012

This intensive course explores the use of full masks, costumes and props in physical theatre. Through a variety of practical exercises and improvisations that cover the principles of mask work, students will increase their physical expressivity, stagecraft and acting technique.

The Healthy Practitioner

14 and 15 April 2012

This new course is aimed at artists from all backgrounds who want to learn more about healthy working practices. Students will explore the different factors that contribute to good health and discover practical ways to protect the body and mind, and increase well-being.

Spatial Dynamics

14 and 15 April 2012

This challenging course is inspired by the work of the Laboratory for the Study of Movement at the internationally renowned Lecoq School in Paris. Students will explore the spatial dynamics of colour and emotion, and experiment with the relationship between improvisation, movement and construction.

Make-Up Artistry

14 and 15 April 2012

This specialist course is designed for people with an interest in developing their knowledge and skills in the art of applying make-up for film and television. The course will provide hands-on activities for students to experiment with materials, and demonstrations by a professional make-up artist.

Design for Performance

26 and 27 May 2012

This practical course is aimed at performers who are interested in developing the visual side of their work. Using exploratory design exercises, students will look at how objects, composition and location can be used to enhance and define performance material.

Introduction to Directing

26 and 27 May 2012

This intensive course focuses on the key elements of directing for theatre, providing an insight into creative exercises that can support work with actors. Students will be introduced to established directing styles and methodologies, and explore how they can be used to create engaging theatre.

In addition to receiving specialist tuition in specialist performance areas students will be led through a process of song and monologue preparation including research, experimentation and rehearsal.

The course is structured around six intensive skills weekends and seven weeks of audition preparation sessions. Students have the option of completing the full 13-week course, or dipping into a selection of the intensive weekends.

Please see page 11 for recommended intensive weekends marked with an asterix.

Summer Schools 2012 for Children and Young People

Each summer we present a packed programme of theatre projects for children and young people from 5 – 17 years old.

Our summer projects are distinctive in the way that the performing arts are used to allow children and young people to share their views, opinions, ideas and passions with each other.

At the end of each week-long project, families and friends are invited to attend a sharing of the week's work in one of our performance venues.

All our projects are taught by brilliant theatre professionals, supporting access to excellence for young people. They are ideal for anyone who wants to have fun, get creative and meet like-minded people with an interest in the performing arts.

Detailed information about the course leaders and content will be available later in the year. Please check our website for updates.

Weekly Classes for Adults and Young People

Our new dance programme allows students access to our specialist spaces and teaching staff who can share with you everything they know about dance, movement, creativity and a healthy lifestyle.

Classes are a great way to meet new people, develop skills and achieve goals for health and well-being. In our specialist areas we also provide pathways for pre-vocational training.

Please note, our dance classes take place across our two campuses on Renfrew Street and at Speirs Locks Studios in our fantastic industry-standard studios.

Addresses for both venues can be found on page 30. See our website for course dates and fees.

Modern Ballet Short Courses / Summer Schools: Adults and Young People

Short Courses

For young people aged 13 – 17

Spring Modern Ballet

11 – 13 April 2012

10am – 4pm

This intensive course is practical, rigorous and aims to prepare young dancers working towards vocational dance training.

Students will take part in daily classical technique classes with pointework for girls and virtuosity for boys. In addition, students will take masterclasses in a range of supporting subjects, including contemporary dance and classical repertoire.

Modern Ballet Pre-vocational Training

This course is aimed at students of secondary school age who have substantial ballet experience and are pursuing a professional career in the field. The programme involves weekly classes and intensive training courses in the spring and summer. It will focus on the development of the specific skills required to enter full-time vocational ballet training at the age of 16+.

The course is designed to work in partnership with existing Associate Programmes and local dance teachers. Entry to the programme will be by audition only and classes will be delivered by the BA Modern Ballet teaching staff.

Access

We are committed to widening access to the performing and production arts. Most of our courses are open access and are designed to allow students to explore the performing and production arts in a supportive environment. We welcome participants from different backgrounds and with varying abilities, and provide opportunities to grow and develop through participation.

Our weekly classes are mainly suitable for students at different experience levels and we do not audition for places. All we ask from students is enthusiasm and commitment.

Our courses are held across two campuses; the main building on Renfrew Street and our new state of the art Spiers Locks Studios on Garscube Road.
