

Relationships

In order to have successful relationships, there are key things that need to be present.

Trust

If one person cannot trust the other person, the relationship can become unhealthy and may end.

Respect

If one person cannot respect the other person, the relationship can become unhealthy and may end.

Communication

Communication is a vital part of any relationship. Open and honest communication builds healthy relationships.

Clear Expectations

Set clear boundaries in the relationship.

Relationships

There are different kinds of relationships that people can have with one another.

Different relationships involve different levels of trust.

Cut out and order how much trust you would have with someone if they were a...

stranger

partner

colleague

classmate

parents

siblings

cousin

close friend

friend

acquaintance

school staff

distant relative