

What are natural consequences?

A natural consequence is the result of any action.

They are not intentional consequences but results of actions.

Examples

Action

Natural Consequence

If a heart beats

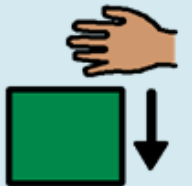

blood should travel around the body.

If I breathe in my lungs should expand.

If I drop something

it should fall down.

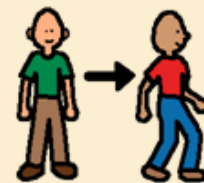

If I bend something

it might break.

If I hurt someone

they may not want to be around me.

Natural consequences are not intended to be punishments.

They are the result of an action.

We might not be happy with the natural consequence of our actions.
