

Child Protection Planning Meeting

Information Leaflet for Parents and Carers

A Child Protection Planning Meeting shares information about your child and your family. This leaflet should answer questions which you may have about this meeting.

What is a Child Protection Planning meeting?

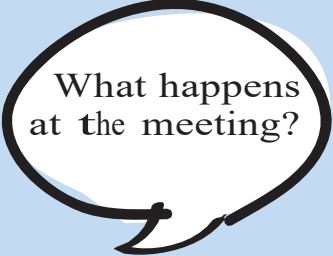

answer A Child Protection Planning Meeting is a meeting to bring together all of the people who are involved with your family to share information and talk about what is best for your child.

answer All those who know your family, are invited such as...

Who will be there?

You and your child will be invited. You can bring someone along for support - like a friend or family member. Our Children's Rights Service will be invited. They are independent. They help children express their views, feelings and wishes about decisions affecting them and safeguard their best interests.

What happens at the meeting?

answer Meetings are arranged for different reasons:

- following a Child Protection Investigation,
- before the birth of a baby
- following significant concerns being raised regarding children or young people already involved with services

Everyone at the meeting, including you, will have an opportunity to take part and ask questions. All children living in your family will be discussed at the meeting and decisions may affect them too.

Different decisions can be reached, such as:

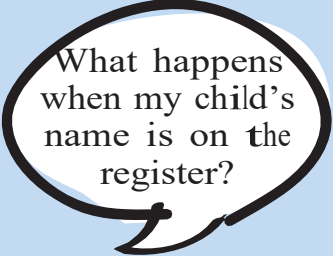

- no further action required,
- voluntary support offered,
- delayed decision to enable further information to be obtained, or further contact is made with the family or an assessment is carried out (this involves gathering more detailed information about your family's circumstances)
- placing your child or children's name(s) on the Child Protection Register answer Social Work Services keeps a central register of all children including unborn babies living in their area who are thought to be at risk of future harm and in need of protection. The list is highly confidential and access to the list is strictly controlled.

What is the Child Protection Register?

If your child's name is placed on the Child Protection Register, we will keep a record of the main concerns and risks that may affect your child, for example physical abuse or neglect. We will also record any other factors which might affect your child such as domestic abuse or drug/alcohol misuse. We will agree with you ways to reduce further risk of harm to your child.

What happens when my child's name is on the register?

answer A Child Protection Plan will be drawn up and all agencies involved will work together with you to support you and your family.

Progress made is discussed at a Review Child Protection Planning meeting and at core group meetings.

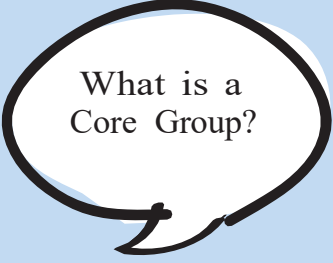

answer This plan contains actions agreed by everyone who attends the Child Protection Planning meeting, including parents. It sets out what needs to be done to reduce concerns. Together we can talk about your child's situation and understand how things are changing and improving.

You will be given a copy of the Plan and a Social Worker will see you/your child weekly.

What is a Child Protection Plan?

The Core Group is responsible for putting the Plan into action.

What is a Core Group?

answer This is a small group of people who are involved with you and your family, such as Health Visitor, Teacher, Social Worker and Support Worker. How often the group meets will be decided at their first meeting. You will be invited to attend core groups. The plan will be discussed and updated if necessary.

What is a Review
Child Protection
Planning meeting?

answer This is a meeting which is held 3 months after the first meeting. The Child Protection Plan is discussed and decisions are made about whether the child's name should remain on the Register or be removed depending on the progress of the Child Protection Plan.

If a child's name remains on the Register, the Child Protection Plan will be reviewed and an necessary changes are made. Review Child Protection Planning meetings usually take place every 6 months unless anyone who attends meetings, including yourself, asks for a Review to take place sooner.

answer Attending the meeting offers the opportunity to express your views and these will be taken into account in reaching a decision. You will also be able to hear and comment on the information shared by others at the meeting. You could put your views in writing before the meeting, if this would be helpful to you.

How can I make my views known?

An allocated Social Worker will meet with you before the meeting to let you read his/her report and help you to prepare for the meeting. Other agencies may also share their report with you beforehand. You may feel that you need help to make your views known, or that you would benefit from an independent advocate. Your child's Social Worker will be able to help you with this.

What if I don't agree with the decision of the Conference?

answer All agencies need to consider your child's best interests. It is very important that everyone hears your views.

If you disagree with the decisions made, a note of this will be taken by the Minute Taker who takes a record of the information shared and the decisions reached.

You can appeal the decision to register or not register your child's name, if you attended the meeting.

If you wish to appeal you should write to the Chair of the Child Protection Committee, within 21 working days of the meeting, stating clearly your reasons for appeal. You can ask for help to do this. The Chair will decide whether there are grounds for an appeal and if so, will arrange a meeting made up of members of the Falkirk Child Protection Committee to hear the appeal.
