

My Life Began

My life began in an egg, dark and alone. After waiting 21 days I was old enough to go into the world that was waiting for me.

I started to peck at the hard walls that surrounded me and began to see light but I didn't get very far as the day went on. Finally, I had cracked all round the shell so I could push myself out. But as I came out, I couldn't see any other chicks. Was I the oldest chick? Maybe I was alone?

As the morning went on I became lonely when suddenly a large creature approached. It got a surprise when it saw me and I heard it say, "What a small fluffy black and white chick you are!" But soon it became noisy. As I looked around I saw big beady eyes staring at me and I felt special for that moment and from that moment on.

I looked around the small see-through room I was in. I saw six different coloured eggs and lights and moving things around me. As the day went on there were so many new noises to hear and all this was making me very tired. I made myself comfy and went to sleep for the first time in my new life.

As I awoke, I heard a small faint splitting sound in the corner of my ear. I think that in a few hours maybe I could have some more friends to cheer me up as I only had myself for company.
