LEARNING AT HOME

Due to the situation we find ourselves in, the homework format has now changed. We will no longer be sending home reading books or jotters for written work. Below is the new home learning information that your child should participate in fully. If you have any questions then please do not hesitate to get in touch and I will be happy to clarify.

Literacy Homework: Reading with your child as often as possible can make a huge difference. Use books, magazines or any other reading materials you have available to you. Your child can also log into Oxford Owl where there are a huge variety of books available for your child to read. They will login at school using their username and password to confirm access.

Number Homework: I have provided your child with number bond activities and times tables strategies to work on. I will add to these as the session progresses. Practicing these at least once a day can make a huge difference to your child's confidence and abilities and I thank you for your support in advance.

There are many youtube videos that help with times tables and number bonds. You can also find online games on Topmarks, Sumdog and Education City that will support your child in the above areas. Topmarks - Hit the Button is a particular favourite.

Here's to a happy and productive year!
