Head Teacher's Welcome

I would like to extend a warm welcome to our Careers Event. It has grown to include more providers ensuring our pupils have an opportunity to explore a large number of career pathways.

At Braidhurst we work hard to raise the aspirations of our young people, making sure they leave school with the right qualifications and attributes to move into a positive destination of their choice. Part of that process is to highlight all the possible routes available to them which events like this support.

We are extremely grateful to the large number of employers and further education staff who have come along to our event to support this and thank them for their time and contribution.

We encourage you to make the most of this opportunity to come along and speak to the many experts available. Ask about entry requirements, expectations, and courses so you can be fully informed of what you need to do to make your ambition a reality. Choosing a career path is one of the most important decisions you make and it is important find out as much as you can to make sure you make the right decision.

I hope you enjoy the event and find it useful. Please complete the evaluation form and feedback as this helps us improve the event for next year.

Look forward to seeing you there.

What is DYW?

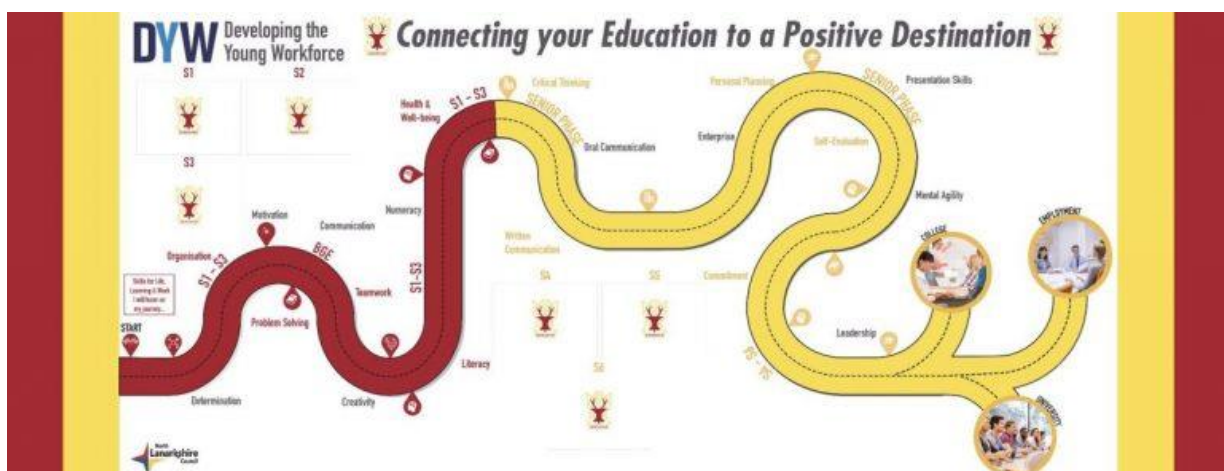

Developing the Young Workforce (DYW) aims to prepare learners for their future pathways and the transition into the world of work. It builds on the foundations already in place through Curriculum for Excellence and is relevant from early years to senior phase and beyond. It contributes to the development of the four capacities and border skills development, makes full use of the four contexts of the curriculum, and addresses each of the entitlements. One example is the entitlement for all children and young people to experience opportunities to develop skills for learning, skills for life and skills for work.

Since the inception of Scotland's youth employment strategy in 2014, DYW has become a recognised and recognisable part of the Scotland's curriculum. Schools and education establishments are taking increasing account of the challenges young people face in entering a rapidly changing economic, technological, and environmental reality when planning their future pathways. This requires systematic development and increasing collaboration with partners such as Skills Development Scotland, regional DYW employer groups, colleges and universities, and community learning and development (CLD).

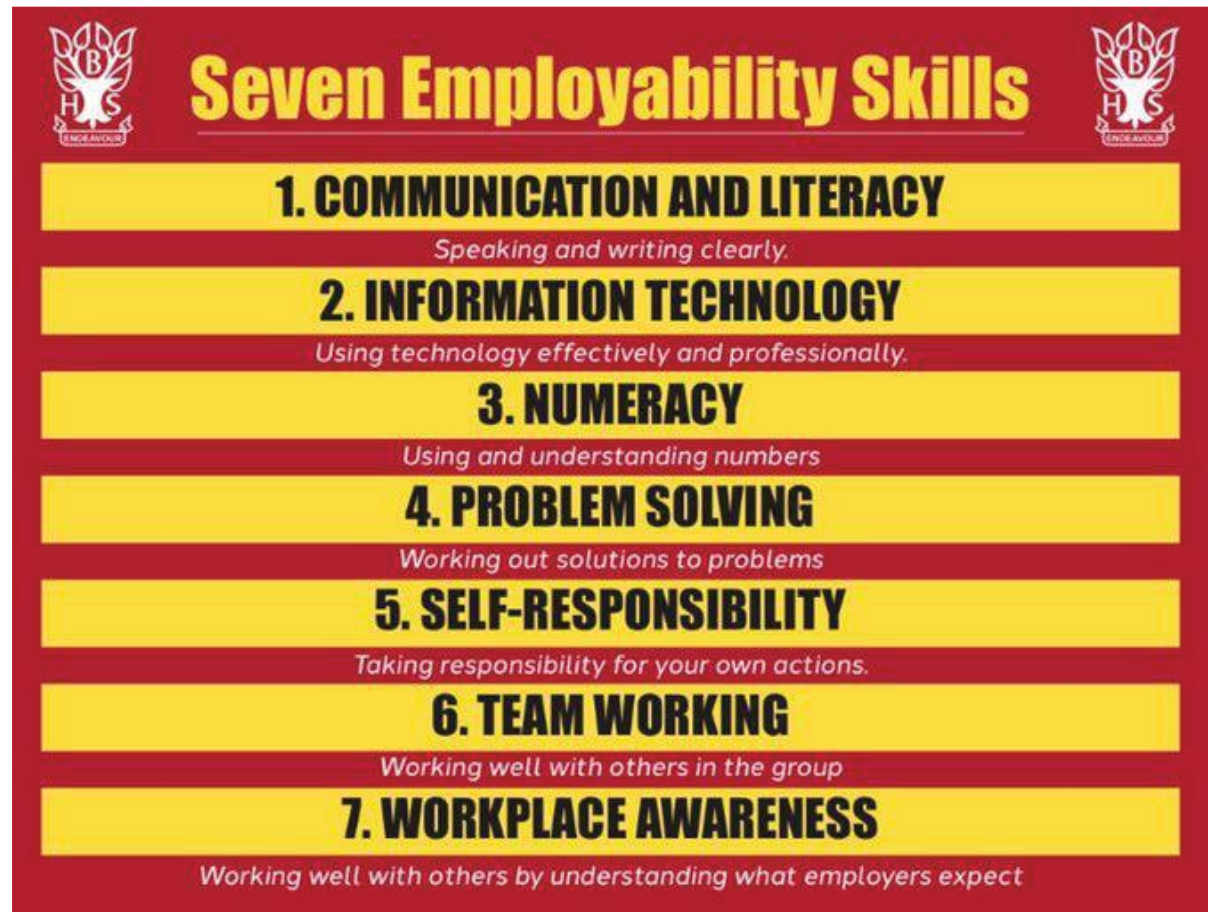

DYW at Braidhurst High School

At Braidhurst, we are fully committed to supporting our pupils on the pathway to a positive destination. Throughout BGE and the Senior Phase, we have designed a specifically tailored approach to ensure all of our pupils develop skills for life and work. Our DYW wall shows the pathway that each pupil will undertake to allow them to develop various skills that will prepare them for whatever career pathway they choose.

In BGE, pupils work towards gaining accreditations through our ASDAN Awards to build their personal statements from a young age. Every pupil will utilise My World of Work and have their profile stored online. Our pupils will also have the opportunity to attend events that will enhance their knowledge of their chosen career path.

As pupils move towards the Senior Phase, S4 pupils will undertake specific CV writing prior to a mock interview evening. S4 pupils can also experience a work placement or be part of our Skills for Life & Work Programme – a programme designed to provide pupils with further opportunities to develop core skills and gain recognised awards. Moving to S5/6, pupils are split into PSHE groups determining their chosen career pathway and are supported by staff and other agencies.

The graphic features a dark red background with seven horizontal yellow bars. Each bar contains a number, a skill name in bold black text, and a descriptive sentence in pink italicized text. The school crest is visible in the top corners.
