

Aid given following the hurricane

- Hurricane Katrina is the _____ ever.
- The American people did not think that the government _____
_____.
- Charities such as _____ and organisations such as the _____.
- Different types of aid were needed. First, _____ in the affected states needed to be rescued.
- Many countries, _____, sent rescue workers immediately.
- Others, such as _____, sent helicopters and other rescue equipment.
- Countries such as Afghanistan and Australia _____.
- Second, _____.
- _____ were urgently required.
- Slovenia, for example, offered _____ worth of cots, mattresses, blankets, _____ while Pakistan sent doctors and paramedics.
- The final type of aid needed was _____ so that the country could start rebuilding. Because so much was destroyed by the hurricane, everything needed to be rebuilt, including _____, _____ and hospitals. President Bush promised to help rebuild the affected states. However, recovery was _____. The US government gave $110 _____ - to rebuild the affected areas and help the victims, but one year later, only $ _____ billion of this had actually been spent. Seven years after the hurricane, almost _____ remained homeless and _____ buildings were still abandoned.
