

The Boy

By Kyle Reid

A Long Time Ago in a Galaxy Far, Far Away...

This story starts in a small planet called Pulca. The planet was very wealthy. There is a small town in this planet where a boy was born named Adam. This town was no longer safe for it was run by a hutt. Hutts were not the best of people, they only cared for money and themselves. Adam never liked the hutts, in fact he hated them! They lived in a castle while he lived in a rundown house. He never really went out because the planet was half fire.

The Battle Droids

"What's going on?" said Adam. All he heard were blaster noises and footsteps coming closer and closer...

VROOM, VROOM...

When Adam looked his droid was cut in two!

"You better go!" said a cold voice.

Adam ran as fast as he could to the ships on the side of the town dodging fire and bombs.

Adam was on the ship looking at the huts. He could tell they were wanting to shove him off.

But then he noticed a man. Who was he? He had a lightsabre?

"Wait...," thought Adam, "he's a Jedi!"

He looked around, seeing the man but said nothing. He sat down and stared at the burning town in rage.

Jedi in Training

The man walked up to Adam. "Come with me," he said.

"First, who are you?" said Adam.

"I am Mase Windo, a Jedi master. My master, Yoda, told me to come here and get you," said Mase.

"Why does Yoda want me?" said Adam in confusion.

"You have a thing called the 'Force'. It's what all Jedi have. I will take you to the Jedi temple," Mase said with a smirk on his face.

Six Years Later...

Adam is now training to be a Jedi master. He is no longer that 10 year old boy who lived in Pulca. He's now 16 and about to get Jedi master.