

Meet the Teacher

A little about me.

What is important to me outside of school?

Hello! My name is Miss Zahrah Tayyub and I am so excited to join the team at Gartcosh Primary! Outside of school, I like to spend time with my family, they are very important to me. I enjoy playing lots with my niece and four nephews. I enjoy going to the gym and keeping active. I am very passionate about cooking, especially the South Asian cuisine. I can speak four languages. I also love to spend time in nature, I feel most connected and relaxed in this environment.

What's Important to me in class...

My first priority is to develop a meaningful relationship based on trust and respect with every learner. I am a very nurturing person, and I ensure all children feel safe and welcomed in our school community. No problem is too big to solve. Friendship and kindness are big themes in our classroom climate. It is important to me to support every child to stretch their minds, try new things, and set high standards for themselves. 😊

What our year will look like...

This year, I am extremely lucky to be working with so many fantastic teachers and learners across the school! I am teaching P5 two days a week, and otherwise I am teaching P3, P4/5, P6, and P6/7. We will be exploring a variety of curriculum areas together across these stages, including literacy, numeracy, science, ICT, expressive arts, health and wellbeing, drama and languages.

I am a very responsive teacher. It is important to empower pupil voice to discover where children would enjoy leading their class learning and tuning in to their curiosities! 😊

A Glance around our classroom ...

I am so excited to take part in developing the five different classes I will be leading the learning in. Safe, organised and nurturing classroom environments are a priority to maintain by all staff and children. Together, we will build all classroom communities and make our learning spaces well utilised, purposeful and child focussed.

KINDNESS IS
contagious.

How we work in class...

With all the classes I will be working with, I enjoy taking a varied approach to teaching and learning. A balanced mixture of independent, partner, and group learning experiences along with active, project-based activities are ideal to boost engagement. I will be closely getting to know each class and using teaching strategies best suited to their individual learning styles. Immersing all learners in new experiences is key in them getting to know their strengths and interests. 😊
