Creative Writing S1/2

Winners:

- 1st Ethan Bester 2P6

Augustus always hated the days he was on evening guard duty. It was either staring out into nothingness or it would be life-threatening danger. On this particularly clear night, he had the impending feeling of doom. The slightest blow of wind made him jump; Captain Antonius was always particularly vile on evening duty, threatening people with death for the slightest of mistakes.

When Augustus was a boy, Roman soldiers stole him from his village in Syria as revenge towards his birth father, a general in the Roman military.

During his reflection, it happened, the besiege started, the wall fell . . .

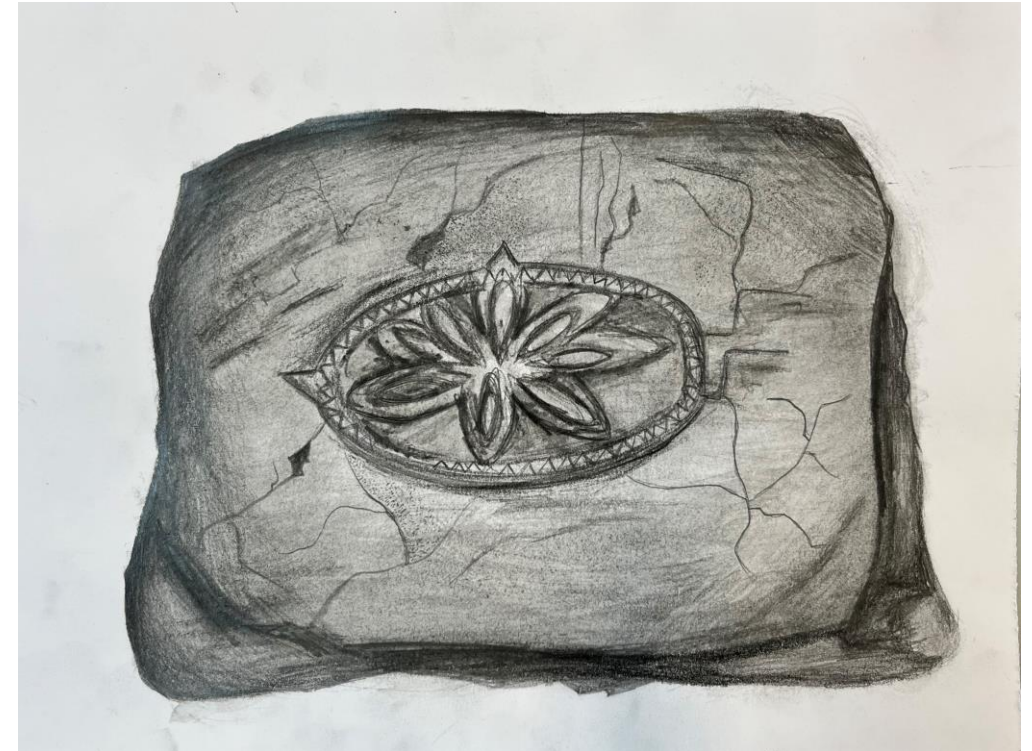

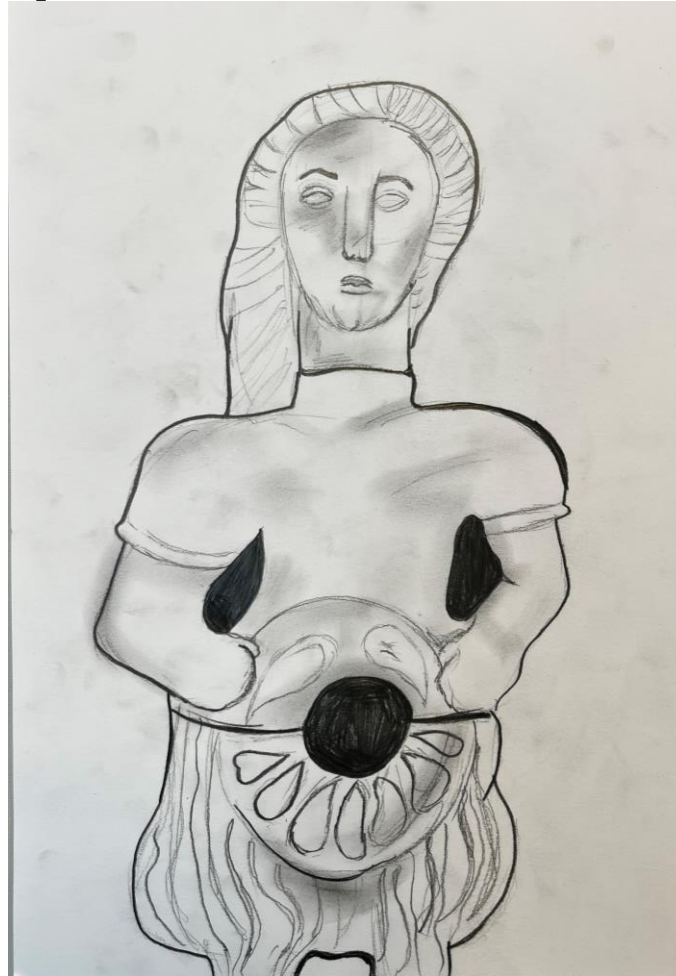

Ethan's entry was carefully written and imaginative - the judges loved this piece of flash fiction and wanted to know what happens next!

Creative Writing P6/7 (Flash Fiction)

- 1st Ruby Auld P6/7 Westfield PS
- 2nd Indy Rose Banyard P6 Westfield PS
- 3rd Tegan Vass P6/7 Westfield PS
- Runners-up
- Emily Handlin P6/7 Westfield PS

1st place entry by Ruby Auld:

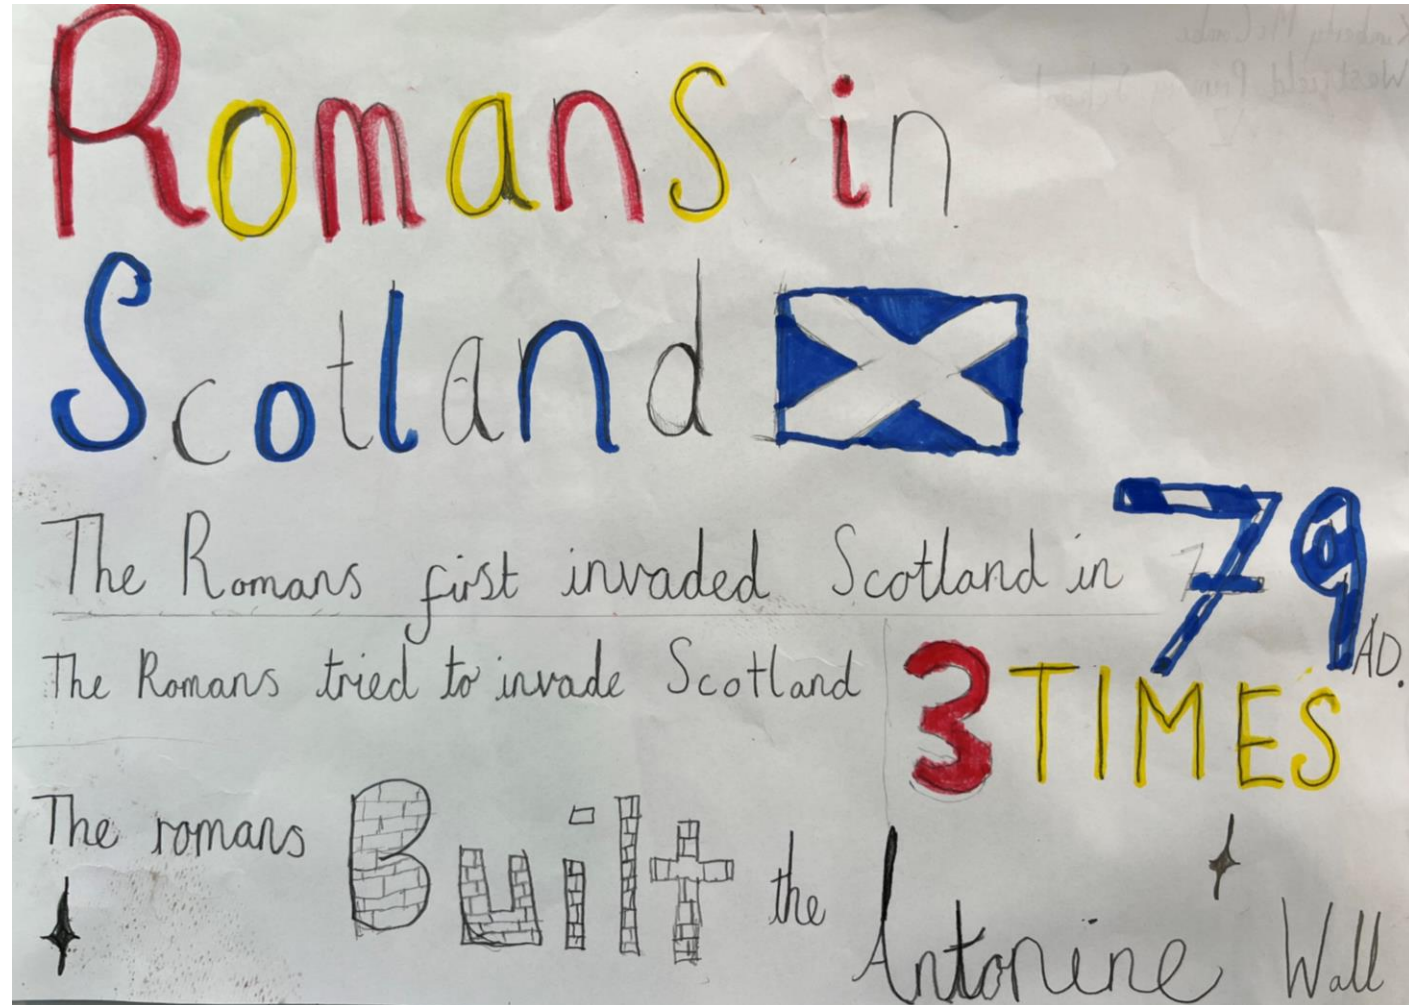

Suddenly, I woke up in a flash. My parents standing over my bed with worried expressions painted on their faces. Worry, and fear. What was going on? But then I knew. 'They're here Aurora,' my mum screamed, her lips trembling. 'WE NEED TO GO. NOW!' she wailed. I was so scared. What was going to happen to our family? Our animals? Our Caledonia? I looked out the window and saw the Romans ready to charge but in the front I saw a familiar face. Then I realised. It was MY OWN BROTHER! He had betrayed our country to the Roman Empire!

The judges thought that Ruby's entry was excellent and a brilliant response to the prompt (artist Alan Potter's Roman and Celtic figures that he drew for the mosaics). Ruby has thoughtfully created a very dramatic scene, and we loved the twist at the end!

Poster Competition P6/7
