The Boss and

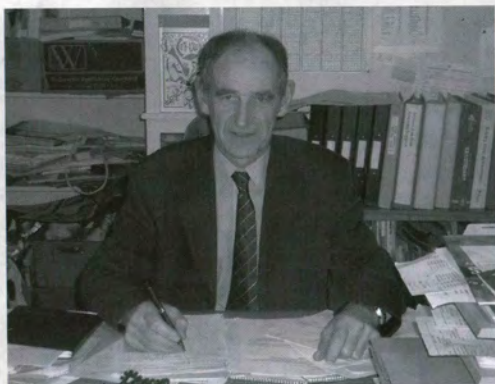

Each year I write a piece for the Yearbook. Each year I state that I am sure that this year's book will be the best ever. Each year my prediction is accurate.

I am sure I will be correct again in saying that in this, our Jubilee year, the team will produce the best ever Yearbook.

I am sure that when the current pupils reach my age, their children and grandchildren will enjoy looking through the faces from the past.

Congratulations to the whole team who have had a very professional approach to their work.

Mr MacRae

Mrs Stewart

Mrs Kubica

Mr McKay

his Helpers

I'd like to say a big CONGRATULATIONS to the Yearbook team for producing such a fantastic Jubilee Edition.

Congratulations must especially go to Alison, the Editor, for not actually exploding and splattering all over the wall! Although with stress levels as dangerously high as they were, it was a close thing!

The Jubilee Year has been a lot of fun - and a lot of work! But we survived, thanks to all the lovely prefects turning up for their duties and volunteering for the seemingly endless list of parents' evenings. I think we all deserved the biscuits we stole!

Some recognition must also go to the teachers - those we all know and love and whom we'll all remember for one reason or another! Whether we want to admit it or not, they really helped us through, not only preparing us for the dreaded exams, but also for the world beyond KA!

Thank You KA!

Katy and her Dux medal

June 2003 saw the annual awards ceremonies take place. Pictured are some of the prize winners from each year group. If you won an award but don't see your ugly mug pictured, it's your own fault for not turning up for the photo! No prizes for guessing who the major winner in the senior school was. Pictured above, Katy Rankin made a clean sweep, with merit awards for every subject, Dux, the English cup, the Maths cup and the Modern Languages Shield. Congratulations! At least you saved everyone else from having to move, Katy!

Kid's Lit Quiz

On the 12th of December, our very own Kilsyth Academy played host to the only Scottish heat of the Kid's Lit Quiz. Our own team did very well, being placed fifth out of 24 schools. The quiz originated in New Zealand and is the brainchild of Wayne Mills, who wanted to encourage kids to read. The quiz was a great success and the winners, Dunblane High School, went on to win the British heat.

SAVE THE

Almost as traditional as Christmas, the end of year senior social is always a big hit, this year proving to be no exception. The Colzium House was the hot spot in Kilsyth on Friday 13 June as everyone let their hair down (some more than others!) after the stresses of exams. Everyone was "dolled up" for a night to remember that included dancin', romancin', and drinkin'! Here are some of the memorable moments.

Time Team

We found it impossible to convince the Channel 4 Time Team crew that Balmalloch, Kilsyth was a ritual Pictish burial ground, or anything else exciting for that matter. So the Editorial team were forced to take matters into their own hands and dig about in the school archives to find any artefacts worth saving, apart from Mr MacRae's hair.

The earliest part of Kilsyth Academy was built in the ancient civilisation of the 1950s, when dinosaurs were still roaming the earth and Mr MacRae was just in his 40s. Additional wings were added at various stages when the inhabitants were most prosperous.

It was discovered after many hours of reading the school log book that the average weekly entry consists of "Nothing out of the ordinary to report". Also found were many photographs, some of which are displayed here. On occasion, however, the school did go all out with musical productions, talent shows and even a visit from the Prime Minister and the late Donald Dewar (for whom the road was specially resurfaced).

Throughout its existence, Kilsyth Academy has been used by adults to teach the new generation about subjects they deem important. To our disappointment this does not include classes in hair straightening, applying the perfect fake tan or perfecting that "just got out of bed" look for the boys. Despite all of this, it is the teachers who have been found to be crazy, not the pupils.

Here are but a few examples.

A former principal teacher of Modern Languages had rather eccentric discipline procedures; he used the belt for the slightest crime, such as, a failure to answer one of his questions in French.

KA Style

However, he did not like belting girls, so if a girl made a mistake, it was common policy for her to nominate a boy in the class to receive the punishment for her. Nowadays, the teacher would be locked up. Although most teachers and female pupils would probably welcome a reintroduction of the belt.

A former Head of Maths was even more eccentric, if not insane. He was teaching a class in what is known now as Room 154. When the bell rang for the end of the period, he decided that he was not going to let his pupils out of the door. However, he did say that they could leave through the window, if they wanted. So all 25 pupils had to climb out of the window and clamber down the outside wall. None of the pupils thought of reporting his behaviour, as this was standard procedure in his class.

A History teacher decided to liven up a lesson about the war. He gave the class some work to do, then went into the adjacent store cupboard. Some 5 minutes later, he leapt out wearing an army uniform, camouflage paint and most disturbingly, carrying a rifle. (We wonder who that was, Mr Gordon!)

A Chemistry teacher was doing an experiment upstairs when, suddenly, a tap came away from the attached pipe and a fountain of water shot high into the air. The teacher did nothing about it until a Technical teacher came running upstairs to say that water was pouring through his ceiling. The teacher then decided that he should probably report the problem to the janitor, by which time, the water was 2 cm deep on his floor, it was seeping through the walls into adjacent labs and was pouring through the ceiling of 3 technical rooms.

Kilsyth Academy has had a great 50 years, with lots of great memories and we hope that the next 50 years will be even better!

The week was a big success and the trip was enjoyed by all who went. (Apart from TT who spent most of it sleeping). This was Mr Simpson's last ever trip and despite the over-flow and over-spending on "refreshments", it lived up to the high standard of previous trips and will keep Mr Simpson with good memories well into his retirement.

The public speaking competition is the annual chance for the English stars to shine. This gave Mrs Burton and members of the Rotary Club a very hard decision when judging each of the competitions. The topics covered ranged from a disastrous skiing trip and the Falkirk Wheel to Steven Carter's unique talk about his life so far.

After the ordeal of the competition the winners were invited to go and give their speeches to the Rotary Club. We are sure all the people at the Rotary Club would have been just as entertained as we were when we listened to the competitions. A big thank you to everybody who took part. We hope you are all looking forward to this year's competition!

Disco

It seems Kilsyth Academy has gone disco crazy this year!! On the 17th of November, the school held its third disco of the year, with all proceeds going to the "Bring back the old boiler" campaign. With the sweltering temperatures in the school, it was refreshing to feel the chill of a crisp November evening. Everyone enjoyed themselves (as the photos show) except our Sam! Unfortunately Liam just couldn't take the pace!

Grant couldn't pull any birds, so tried his luck with his mates instead!

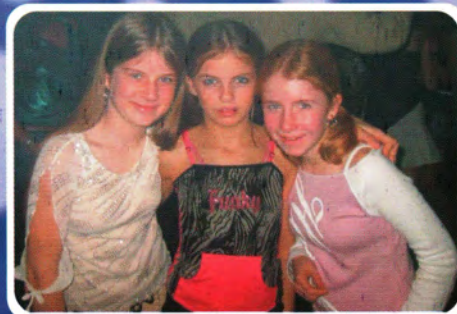

Ben gets lucky with not one, but two, lovely ladies!

Did no-one tell them Hallowe'en has passed?

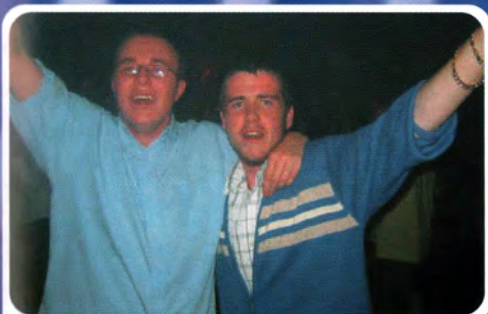

Looks like Gordon's seen the ghost from the clock tower!

MANIA

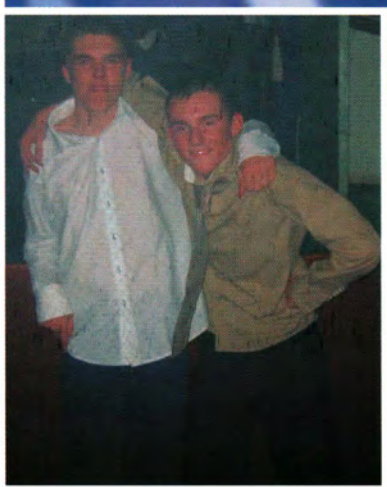

Everyone got their glad rags on to strut their stuff on the dance floor. However, the award for "worst dancers" has to go to Cochy and Dome!

Hayley and Eleanor enjoy one last night of freedom before prelims!

Survival of

On 29 August, 32 pupils, 4 teachers and a mad bus driver headed for the Highlands for a weekend of "Team Building". Highlights included Mrs K and Mrs A getting no sleep due to persistent talkers; Andrew's monkey business up an 82ft tree; everyone's singing efforts; a group shouting match and Alistair and Martin trying to scare the girls by hiding in the bushes. Most memorable of all was the rafting. Rumour has it, the MacPherson clan are releasing a book entitled "How to sink in the middle of the loch in 10 easy steps!"

The Old and...

The infamous Mr Lewis (I'm sure you all remember him well) was in K.A from 1978-2003 and he has taken with him many happy memories. One such memory was of an incident which occurred a few years ago when a young boy set fire to a school sink! The brave Mr Lewis eventually extinguished it with a fire blanket and water! Although Mr Lewis is enjoying his retirement he does miss his Chemistry cupboard and claims he could 'barely find the time to come back into school!'

Mr Lewis's Quotes: 'See me at the end, I'll give you something to do'
'Fail to prepare, prepare to fail' 'Money for old rope, really!'

Mr Robertson admits that he has been with us for so long that he cannot remember the exact date (We did attempt to work it out but no-one's maths was that good!) Mr Robertson likes to think back on his first day at KA as an exciting challenge and he remained with us so long due to the friendly atmosphere...and of course his expertise on the Kilsyth Cuddies football team! (We apologise for any alarm this picture may cause). When asked for a funny incident Mr Robertson proudly replied 'no serious incidents, at least no legislations!' No longer dabbling with biology, we can now catch Mr Robertson building fences and playing his mandolin.

Mr Robertson's Quotes: 'It's quite simple really' 'It's a hard life'
'Making steady progress'

Mr Simpson, the only PE teacher who was known to smoke 40 cigarettes a day, was with us from August 1965. During that time he must have taught over half of the population of Kilsyth. He will be missed by the large number of pupils who have taken part in the annual 3 Countries trip. Mr Simpson was the main organiser of this trip and since he left many pupils have said that the trip just won't be the same without him. However, we have not had the chance to miss him properly. Since retiring he has almost spent more time in the school than when he worked here. Let's take this as a compliment!

Mr Simpson's Quotes: 'a rum tum tum!'
'(students name) you are a muppet'
(always with closed eyes!)

Mr Taylor, better known as 'Mr T', was often referred to as "Marathon Man" because of his claims of running marathons! When asked if we could ask him a few questions Mr T replied "depends how personal". This left us wondering what he has to hide! Mr Taylor will miss the good pupils and the staff at the school. However he is now fully enjoying the free time he has to play golf and tennis, occasionally taking a break to do a bit of supply teaching. The best thing about retirement for him is "being able to go out a lot".

Mr Taylor's Quotes: 'Get your wires out!' 'Physics is magic'

Crazy Day has always been known for its cross-dressing teachers and endless battles to beat Nicky Harrison at the Technical Carnival. This year proved to be no exception. The Tech Carnival was once again the place to be as everyone battled to win the great selection box prize and the karaoke was one event that you didn't have to be at to hear! Fun, laughter and enjoyment carried on into the afternoon as we were introduced to some new members of staff and watched as two of our very own fifth year were set up on a well-named "Blind Date".

Katy: "too smart to be female", according to Stewart who can't see over the counter at work yet

This year's tribute to Robert Burns was yet another fabulous success, with Katy and Stewart pushing the boundaries of insults to the max, while Mr Dougan crossed the line with his rubbish jokes as he tried to fill Mr Denovan's shoes in the role of Chairman. Katy's speech took a satirical look at the male species, with Stewart coming into her line of fire most often, with jibes at his height and his love for the younger lady. Stewart just made a blatant attack on women, telling us that they are apparently only good for two things one of which is cooking. He also let us in on some secrets about Katy's success - "study, study, study", and her downfalls - not knowing how to say "social life" in a foreign language. There were also speeches from Peter Welsh and John Graham, as well as more bad jokes from Mr Dougan.

This year has been a busy one for the school's clubs and teams. The Dance Club entered the North Lanarkshire Dance Competition and the 3rd Year dancers won silver at a previous festival. The gymnastics team are the North Lanarkshire Schools' Champions for the third year running. The advanced gymnastics team are representing this area in the Scottish Championships. Kirsty Adams took part in an International Gymnastics Festival in Barcelona. The badminton team won the North Lanarkshire Consolation Quaich. The 6th Years entered into the Engineering Education Scheme Competition and won the Glasgow Caledonian University Award for Design Excellence. The debating team was very successful and even reached the Scottish semi-finals of the English Speaking Union Debating Competition. The sailing team won the Ken Sykes Ladies Trophy in the Scottish School event for the 4th year running. This year's Enterprise Company 'Blazin Ice' has been very productive, producing items for every occasion in the school year.

Young Musician Of The Year

The Young Musician of the Year Competition is the annual opportunity for pupils to show off their musical talent and once again the standard was very high. This year the winner of the senior competition was Claire Kerr on piano with Graham Stirling on clarinet. The Junior competition was won by Stewart Houston on clarinet, with Samantha Fowler on flute and Katie Richardson on clarinet being the runners up. The winner of the singing competition was Rowan Richardson with Sarah McKenzie as runner up. The swing band entertained the audience when the judges were deliberating.

BEHIND

Editor
Alison

Well done readers! You've finally reached the end of this year's jumbo sized Yearbook! We finally finished production after 7 long months of being caged into room 124, only occasionally being let out to visit the scanner, surviving on Irn Bru, Fruit Pastilles and Chomps, supplied by Mr MacRae.

Production of this year's YB was fraught with disaster - anything that could go wrong with the photos, did go wrong, and of course, there was the long running feud over who was responsible for scanning. All that is left to say is a big thanks to everyone involved and good luck to next year's team.

Alison

We love each other really!
Alison and Gillian (Deputy Editor)

The Editorial Team

Natalie, Alison, Mairi, Beth and Gillian were responsible for designing pages.

This team had endless lunchtime meetings, which Beth will miss dearly.

Gillian and Alison stopping mid-argument to pose for the camera!

DTP

Graeme, Ashley, Melanie and Ramsay

The DTP team have worked really hard this year, producing everything on the computers.

This year's dazzling cover was designed by Natalie Morris and the excellent endsheets were produced by Ramsay MacFarlane.

Yearbook Phrases!

Editorial

Alison: "Eh, I'm the Editor!"
Gillian: "I did the social page!"
Beth: "Graeme could you possibly..."
Natalie: "But I did the cover!"
Mairi: "I need to go to debating."

DTP

Melanie: "Scanning is not a DTP job!"
Graeme: "It's a disaster!"
Ashley: "I have a sore head."

A yearbook member
happy at his work - rare!

Thanks!

We would like to thank everyone who has played a part in producing this Yearbook and in making it the best one yet!

We would like to say a special thank you to:

The Technical Department, for all their advice, for the use of rooms, computers, flash drives and the scanner and for allowing us to print out so many pages.

Miss Reilly for all the advice, proof reading the pages and her alignment skills.

Mr MacRae for proof reading the pages and, more importantly, supplying us with juice and fruit pastilles.

Mr MacKay for booking so many taxis for us

Mr Macinnes for taking photos and allowing us to use his printer.

The Publishers, especially Craig Gilchrist, for putting up with us and giving us so much help and advice.

Every one in the school for being patient with us while we were taking all the photographs.

And finally, to you, for buying the yearbook!!!!!!
