

First Level: Ideas of Chance and Uncertainty

Cut out the cards below and talk about how likely or unlikely it would be for each event to happen. Can you sort them into 2 piles? Make sure you can explain your choice.

You will play outside today.	It will rain today.	The Queen will visit your house.
You will travel to the moon.	There will be snow this weekend.	You will have mashed potato for dinner today.
You will wake up 5 inches taller tomorrow.	There will be cartoons on TV today.	Your teacher is a robot.
Your teacher will become a rock star.	Your dog will start talking.	A YouTube star will phone you.
You will eat a packet of crisps before the weekend.	You will tidy your room without being asked.	You will turn into a pumpkin.

Draw 2 pictures – one showing something that is likely to happen and one with something that is unlikely to happen.
