

Inference

Read the text below and then answer the questions in Challenges 1-3.

While we stood queuing we could see more and more people flooding through the turnstiles. The air was filled with the sound of rushing wheels on rails and the excited shrieks of children enjoying the thrill. The sweet scent of fresh doughnuts mingled with the smell of fried onions. My stomach rumbled. It was a very hot day and there was no shade. My feet ached. It felt like the queue was hardly moving. It would have been better to have come on a rainy day. There would have been less standing around.
