Posting Comments

In order to promote partnership between home and school our blog is interactive. We welcome comments from staff, parents and pupils (with parental permission).

In order to leave a message you should click on the title of the post you are commenting on, then fill in the form below.

Approving Comments

Comments will not appear immediately. These will need to be approved by a member of the school Management Team before they become visible.

We welcome your input to bring our web site another dimension, but you should be aware that comments will not be approved automatically.

Why would my comment not be approved?

Please consider if the web site is the right place for any messages posted. If you have a specific question, complaint or concern it may be best to contact the school office in the first instance. If you do make such a post, we will contact you directly to find a solution to any problems you may be facing, rather than enter into an on-line debate.

Do not identify a child by name. We are very careful not to name pupils in photographs in order to protect their identity on-line. If you post a comment such as, "I love the yellow t-shirt, Peter", this could potentially put Peter at risk.

As with any on-line activity, our pupils are trained to let an adult know what they are doing. We expect pupils to ask permission from their parents or carers before commenting on the web site. Any inappropriate comments from pupils, on this school web site or any other, will breach their school ICT Contract.

If you find any post or comment inappropriate or upsetting, please contact the school office immediately to have it removed.

We hope you find our new school website informative and easy to access. This leaflet is designed to explain some features you may not be aware of.

How do I access it?

Our website is a blog, which is hosted by Glow, Scotland's national intranet for schools. Glow Blogs do not behave well using the internet browser Safari on a computer. Safari often works on a 'phone or tablet, but if you are accessing our blog on a computer you should try another browser, or you may not see all our photographs.
You will find us at:

How will I locate the information I need?

Take time to explore the drop down menus at the top of the screen. Much of the information from our old website has been transferred over. It is just organised in a different way.

CLASSES

Why is there not a page for the Nursery under Classes?

Over recent years the information being shared by our Nursery has grown to such an extent that it now needs its own web space.

To access the Nursery Blog you can enter the web address, or use the Bookmarked link on the school page. Similarly, there is a Bookmark on the Nursery page linking back to the School Blog.
Locating Posts

Our blog posts can be found in a number of ways. Click on BLOG POSTS in the menu bar, then click on the title of a post to see the full content. The five most Recent Posts are listed in a separate menu to make them easy to find. This is usually found on the right hand side of the screen.

Stepps Nursery

The Nursery posts are categorised in a slightly different way. In order to allow you to find items that are of most interest to you quickly, they are labelled Learning, Planning, News and Seasonal Activities.

Reading Posts

To read a post and view any photographs you should click on the title.

Photographs can be displayed in different ways. You may see a slideshow of pictures automatically running on the post, or there could be a small gallery of thumbnail photographs.

Click on one of the thumbnail photographs and this can then be viewed full size, with the option of scrolling through all the shots using arrow keys that appear on screen.

Videos or sound files may be attached at times. These will be very short, but may give a better understanding of a learning experience. To view video clips you will need compatible software at home.

Click on the title to see the full post, and have the option to leave a comment.

Focus on Food

The children in Primary 7b have started working on their Focus on Food topic and are having a great time. We have been discussing recipes and creating a menu they will cook for the adults at our Showcase event. The dishes look very appetising so far! We look forward to seeing parents and carers at the event in March.
