Dear Parents and Carers,

On Tuesday 16th June, Brediland Primary will be participating in The Great Science Share. The Great Science Share is a full day celebration of STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Maths) on the Google Classroom platform in partnership with several schools across Scotland. Pupils can pose questions to experts prior to the event, share ideas and take part in scientific experiments. They will replace the normal numeracy and literacy tasks on Tuesday 16th June.

In the build-up to the event we have encouraged the children to have a think about areas of science that interest them and discuss their ideas at home. Questions can then be asked on the Great Science Share stream. This can be accessed on Google Classroom.

Last week, Jordan Halliday (P7) asked 'Why does Saturn have rings?' Following this excellent question, an astrophysicist from the Royal Observatory in Edinburgh responded to Jordan on the P6 and P7 Great Science Share stream.

We would love for all of our children to submit a question in the Google Classroom Great Science Share stream within Google Classroom in the run up to the event. A variety of activity and experiment suggestions will be shared on the day. Please share pictures and videos of participation by tagging us on Twitter @BredilandSchool. We can't wait to see the excitement and passion for STEM shared by our pupils on the day of the Great Science Share.

Yours sincerely,

Mr D G Rigmand
