

Unleashing the Power of Chromebooks and Google for Education: Programme for Renfrewshire launching 2023!

2023 sees the launch of a professional development opportunity offered by Google for Education free-of-charge, especially for educators in Renfrewshire. The programme is open to teachers, digital leads and school leaders of all phases and at all stages of their career, who want to learn more about Google for Education and how it can positively impact engagement, creativity, teacher workload and student outcomes. We would love to welcome 1 or 2 staff from each school across Renfrewshire.

✓ Why join this programme in 2023?

- Enhance your teaching and learning by using Google Workspace tools.
- Find solutions to your questions about hardware, software & digital pedagogy.
- Reduce your workload using Google tools to maximise productivity.
- Connect with a supportive global community of educators.
- Lead digital learning in your school to improve student outcomes.

👤 How will the training be organised?

This training is customised for Renfrewshire educators, and fully aligned to the National Model of Professional Learning, based on evidence-informed research about what makes effective training. The training corresponds closely to the Professional Standards for teachers in Scotland to help you evidence your professional growth.

You will be invited to two virtual webinars. You will also have the opportunity to represent your school at one Google for Education in-person training day and two in-person afternoons in Renfrewshire. You will receive access to high-quality training resources, lots of ideas to use right away in your classroom, and personalised support to help you get the most out of the course.
