

With the Scotland National Men's football team making history by qualifying for the Euro's finals for the first time since 1996, we want to support our national team on their quest for glory!

Scotland play their first match of the competition this Monday 14th June at 2 o'clock and the game will be shown in all classes across the campus for anyone who would like to watch and be a part of history in the making! Pupils can come to school on Monday dressed to support the Scotland team – this could be something blue, something tartan or a Scotland football strip. Please remember, as always, no other football colours/strips are allowed.

We hope to be celebrating a good result on Monday but will have fun watching and joining in with this historic event, regardless of the result! Good luck Scotland!
