HOOKED Golf is set to return on Friday as play restrictions are lifted

BY AARON FINNIGAN

Nicola Sturgeon has announced people in Scotland will be allowed to meet friends outdoors, sunbathe and start shopping at garden centres from today as she unveiled the slow easing of the lockdown.

The first minister said she wanted to see a suitably cautious lifting of some lockdown restrictions.

She also confirmed outdoor sports such as tennis and golf could restart and people could visit nearby parks and beauty spots. Outdoor cafes, recycling centres and drive-through restaurants will also be permitted to reopen as part of the four-step plan.

Doctors worry for players health

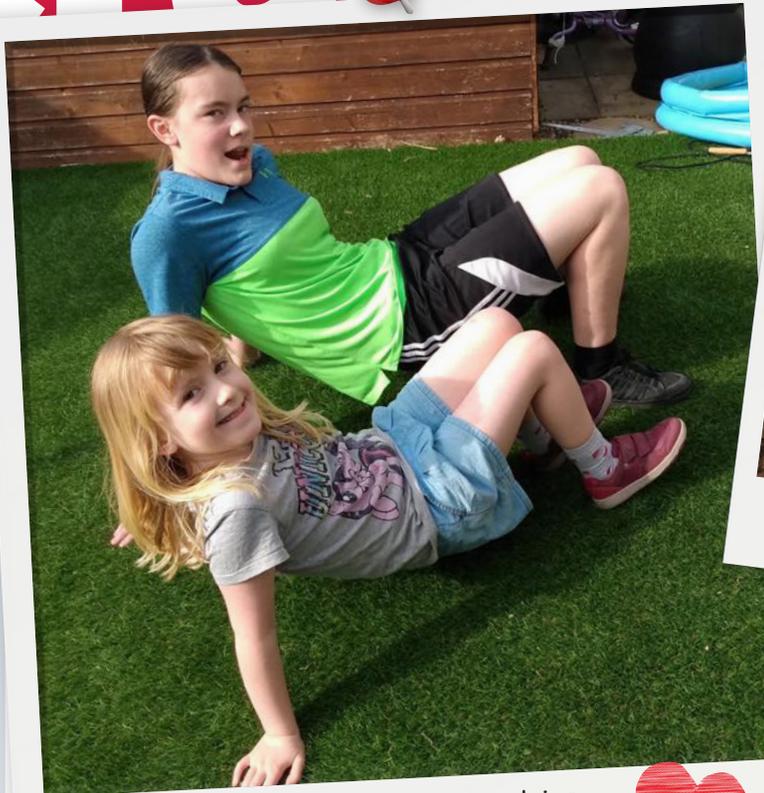

Premier league club doctors are concerned over plans to resume the 2019/2020 campaign. The crisis saw all our football suspended in March and now they are having talks about how and when it can be restarted.

It's being called project restart and plans to resume in neutral grounds in June and finish in August.

Childminders are unsung heroes

Just like schools, many childminders never closed, instead staying open throughout the crisis to look after the children of key workers and children classed as vulnerable.

SPORT IN BRIEF

Sport brings hope as it returns to our screens

BY KYLE FLANNIGAN

Last Saturday, the German Bundesliga started and the whole world tuned in to watch. Celtic were crowned SPFL champions for the 9th time in a row. Hearts were relegated as the SPFL board and clubs agreed that the season should come to an end. Golf also returned as McIlroy and Johnson won the charity skins match beating Fowler and Wolff at Seminole Golf Club to net a total of £1.53m for their charity.

SUCCESS 9-in-a-row but will Celtic reach magic 10?
