Mental health and wellbeing is about how we think and feel and how we cope with day-to-day life.

Good mental health and wellbeing helps us enjoy life and cope well with life's challenges.

In the same way we all have physical health, we all have mental health and we need to look after it.

Here are 5 everyday steps to make day to day tasks a little more manageable...

GET ORGANISED

Try and be prepared which will help you feel like you're in control of your day.

ROUTINE CHECK

Try to work out and plan a daily routine and keep some structure to your days.

LIMIT YOURSELF

Limit the time you watch TV or use your phone and Social Media.

BUFFER-TIME

Jumping from one task to the next may seem like a good use of your time, but it has the opposite effect. We need time to clear our minds and recharge.

SEEK HELP

If your worry or anxiety becomes unmanageable use online or telephone sources of support on page 17.

10 WAYS TO IMPROVE YOUR MENTAL HEALTH AND WELLBEING

1. Eat well and drink sensibly
2. Keep physically active
3. Ensure you get enough sleep
4. Take time to do things you enjoy
5. Keep in touch with others
6. Take a break
7. Talk about your feelings
8. Accept and value who you are
9. Care for others
10. Don't be afraid to ask for help

POSITIVE SELF TALK

Saying things to yourself in your head is very powerful. Your body believes this 'self talk'. Saying positive statements over and over can help you develop a new attitude to yourself and to situations. This can help cope with challenges or when you feel worried or nervous.

Think of some positive phrases that you could say to yourself...

You could write your positive self talk phrases down or type them in to your phone and look at them if you feel worried or nervous.

I am confident

I am well prepared

I have people that love me

I can do this

I am enough

I am doing really well

Relaxation

Relaxation doesn't have to take up lots of time. Simply taking a few minutes for yourself to do something you enjoy can give you enough space to feel calmer. Try to make a plan for your day or your week...and remember to build in some form of relaxation!

Pause...

Throughout the day stop what you are doing for a minute, let your shoulders drop, breathe in for a count of 7 and out for a count of 11, and let your mind calm down...

Go for a short walk...

Brisk walking releases 'feel good' endorphins, allows you to take in the natural environment, and the fresh air helps you to relax and sleep better...

FOCUSSING ON YOUR BREATH...

Simply breathing and paying attention to the moment for a few minutes every day can help build healthy coping skills and calm anxiety. Try to take a little time to breathe, focus on the present moment and be thoughtful about the small details of where you are and how you are feeling.

- Box Breathing involves exhaling to a count of four, holding your lungs empty for a count of four, inhaling for four, holding for four, exhaling and beginning the pattern again. Look at any square shape to make this easier.
- Body Scan Meditation involves paying attention to your body. It is a good way of releasing tension you might not even realise you are experiencing.
- Belly Breathing is when we put one hand on our stomach and one on our chest. Slowly breathe in and feel your stomach expand like a balloon. Slowly breathe out and deflate the balloon.
- Mindful Cup of Tea or Coffee (Decaff of course!) simply sit and just be in the moment. Take five minutes before the day begins...this is even more important when we are going through a busy or more challenging time.

THINGS I CAN CONTROL

When we are facing a challenge or a stressful event it is easy to get lost in worrying about all sorts of things that are out of your control. This is a natural reaction but it is not that helpful. Instead why don't you try this simple activity to help focus on what is in your control:

1. Acknowledge how you are feeling about the situation
2. Draw round your hand on a piece of paper
3. Outside the hand write 'Out of my control'
4. Inside the hand write 'In my control'
5. Write outside of the hand things that are out of your control
6. Inside the hand write things that are in your control for this particular challenge or stressful situation

WELLBEING BINGO

Wellbeing Bingo is a great way to reflect and get you talking and thinking about what you've done in the last week to look after yourself. It can be anything at all however small like catching up with a friend, going for a walk or listening to good music. You can create your own or use the suggestions in the example below. You can play yourself or ask friends or family to play it with you. It can be printed and played like a game of bingo, or simply used to think back on things you have done for yourself.

IN THE PAST WEEK I HAVE...

Played with a pet

Offered support to others

Danced

Watched a great movie/TV show

Listened to good music

Spent time with my family

Was kind to others

Stayed hydrated

Read a good book

Done some exercise

Had some 'me' time

RELAX

Eaten something delicious

Treated myself

Had a good sleep

Spent time with my friends

Visited somewhere new

Three Good Things

1.

2.

3.

How did this make you feel?

Research has shown that thinking about three things that went well or made us smile can improve our mood, help us feel more positive and able to cope.

This is particularly useful when things are tough. Small things are best. It can be anything from a smell, sound or touch.

It can be something you have done or something someone has done for you.

WHAT CAN THE PEOPLE AROUND YOU DO TO SUPPORT YOU?

Let the people around you know that there are some simple things they can do to help you cope...

Acknowledge that it is ok to be concerned.

Don't dismiss my questions or concerns, instead just listen and try to reassure me.

Taking part in another activity while talking can make it easier.

Try to stay positive and offer me safety.

Check in with me regularly.

Together we are well
