Poetry This term we are going to learn about different techniques used in poetry and different types of poems. Can you write an acrostic poem inspired by the snowy weather? Here are some examples and possible words to use for your own. <table border="1"><tr><td>School is closed No reading or maths Only playing in the White, fluffy snow Yay!</td><td>Cold Hot chocolate Inside Lapland Landscape Yeti</td></tr></table>		School is closed No reading or maths Only playing in the White, fluffy snow Yay!	Cold Hot chocolate Inside Lapland Landscape Yeti	Temperature It's freezing outside at the moment. Look at the current temperature on the Met Office website. Can you order the temperatures from lowest to highest? Which day this week is predicted to have the lowest temperature? Which day is predicted to have the highest temperature? What is the lowest temperature recorded in Scotland today, and what is the difference between this temperature and the temperature in Shetland? Lerwick (Shetland Islands) weather - Met Office Time I have set a practice on SumDog – all children should know their logins. The practice activity is called "Time – Snow Day Practice". If any children are unsure of their login, please contact me via email and I can provide the details for you.		Have fun in the snow! Some activity ideas You can write in the snow by adding food colouring (if you have some) to a spray bottle filled with water or use a paintbrush to make some designs in the snow. You could even build a snowman or an igloo! Challenge Can you create a snow Mr Hayes? Send in your pictures and we can judge in class which looks most like me (obviously it needs to be very handsome). Have fun!
