

Ch Phoneme Spotter Story

Charlie Chimp was feeling hungry. He decided to search for some food – “I need something for lunch,” he said. Mummy Chimp was in the kitchen making a batch of rolls for lunch as Charlie chose to go for a walk.

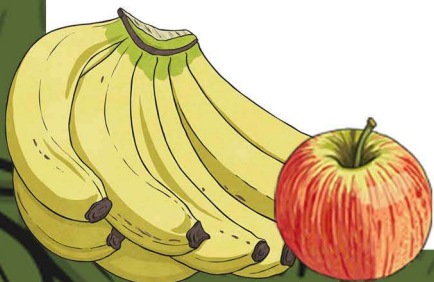

As he climbed through the branches he found Max the Monkey. Max was eating a crunchy apple. “Can I have a crunchy apple please?” said Charlie. “Sorry Charlie, this is all I’ve got for my lunch,” replied Max. “You could stay and play hopscotch with me if you like?” “Maybe later,” said Charlie as he carried on walking.

Then Charlie saw the cheetah family. He watched the young cheetahs – they were playing catch with a large beach ball. “Charlie’s here!” cheered the little cheetahs. “We had a picnic lunch,” said Chester Cheetah. “We had chips and cheese sandwiches!” said Chelsea Cheetah. “Do you have anything I could munch and crunch?” asked Charlie. “We’ve only got ketchup and spinach left,” said Chester Cheetah, “sorry Charlie.”

Charlie then saw Paula Parrot on her perch. “Do you have anything I could munch and crunch?” asked Charlie. Paula stretched out her wings, “I had some peaches,” said Paula, “but I ate them all for lunch, sorry!”

Next, he saw Chesney Chicken and some chicks near the rabbit hutch. The chicks had only hatched a few days ago and were scratching at the ground. Charlie watched Chesney teach the chicks to eat cherries. “Do you have anything I could munch and crunch?” asked Charlie. “Nope, sorry!” cheeped the chicks as they hopped around on a patch of grass.

Sadly, Charlie headed home. Mummy Chimp was waiting for him. “Where have you been Charlie? I’ve made lunch!” “Hooray!” cheered Charlie. What a lot of choice – I’ll choose my favourite; a bunch of chocolate bananas!”
