

All those days watching from the windows

All those years outside looking in All that time never even knowing Just how blind I've been Now I'm here blinking in the starlight Now I'm here suddenly I see Standing here it's all so clear I'm where I'm meant to be And at last I see the light And it's like the fog has lifted And at last I see the light And it's like the sky is new And it's warm and real and bright And the world has somehow shifted All at once everything looks different Now that I see you All those days chasing down a daydream All those years living in a blur All that time never truly seeing Things, the way they were Now she's here shining in the starlight Now she's here suddenly I know

> If she's here it's crystal clear I'm where I'm meant to go

- Why do you think she has been watching from a window for all of these years?
- How do you think she feels about this? Can you think of any words or phrases to describe how she might feel?
- Have you ever felt like this?
- Can you think of a time you weren't included in something or didn't know something that other people knew? How did you feel?
- Standing here it's all so clear, I'm where I meant to be'. How do you think she feels now?
- 'And at last I see the light'. Do you think she sees a real light? What do you think she means by saying this?
- She uses phrases such as 'warm and real and bright' and 'the fog has lifted'. Do you think these are effective in conveying how she feels? Can you think of any more?
- Chasing down a daydream'. Do you ever daydream? What do you daydream about?
- How can you tell the second half of the song is sung by someone different from the first half?
- Why do you think these characters are singing this song together?
