

Word Classes

Consider what type of word needs to go in each gap, thinking is it a noun, verb, adjective or adverb before adding an appropriate word.

She nodded _____, not taking her eyes off her _____, which was still deep _____, though according to the _____ ought to be turning a light shade of lilac by now.

Harry _____ his bean with the flat side of the _____. To his astonishment, it _____ exuded so much juice he was amazed the _____ bean could have held it all. Hastily scooping it all into the cauldron he saw, to his surprise, that the potion _____ turned exactly the shade of _____ described by the textbook.

His _____ with the previous owner vanishing on the spot, Harry now squinted at the next line of instructions. According to the book, he had to _____ counter-clockwise until the potion turned _____ as water. According to the addition the previous owner had made, however, he ought to add a clockwise stir after every seventh counter-clockwise stir. Could the old owner be right _____?

Harry _____ counter-clockwise, held his _____ and stirred once clockwise. The effect was immediate. The potion turned palest _____.
