

Calling all parents & pupils of Stoneyburn Primary School We would love for you to join us on Wednesday to help celebrate National Numeracy Day. We will be sharing some games/activities for each class and it would be great to see and hear about how you get involved with these on Teams, Twitter or Email.

Alongside this, the organisers of National Numeracy Day are bringing you a virtual festival of online events for children and adults, including stories, talks and live lessons from a range of partners as well as some famous faces such as Rachel Riley, Martin Lewis and Lauren Child!

Look out for all the Numeracy activities on Twitter, Teams & the Blog on Wednesday!
When sharing your learning on Twitter, please use the hashtag
