In 1953 Edmund Hillary and his guide, Sherpa Tenzing were the first men in history to climb Everest, the highest mountain in the world, at a height of over 8 800 metres.

Imagine how their hearts must have been beating when they reached the top!

They only stayed at the summit for 15 minutes as it was important to guard against any unnecessary increase in the use of their oxygen supplies. They then began the difficult descent to Camp VI, where the group leader John Hunt heard the great news. (There were no mobile phones then!)
