Literacy Activity

- Writing a Weather Report

Our topic this term will be 'The Weather'. Yesterday you each had a go at writing a weather report, today we will look at weather reports in further detail!

Watch <http://www.bbc.co.uk/schoolreport/25430932>

Your weather report should include...

- A Headline/Heading
- The date of the weather
- The weather for today (use weather vocabulary such as sunny, warm, breezy, cold, temperature, highs, lows, showers, drizzle, degrees celcius etc)
- The forecast/outlook for tomorrow (you will need to look at a real weather report for this or if you want to be creative you could make up your own wild weather report!) <https://www.bbc.co.uk/weather>

Look at the WAGOLL attached to give you an idea – be as creative with this as you like but remember it's a writing piece so capitals, full stops, commas, weather vocabulary and spelling are all important!

Literacy WAGOLL – Weather Report

The Weather for today

Welcome to the Weather Report for West Lothian for the 21st April 2020.

This morning the weather is unusually warm for this time of year with highs of 18° and sunny spells in many parts of West Lothian.

By this afternoon the sun will have slipped behind the clouds and we can expect to see showers by tonight. Temperatures could fall as low as 6°.

The forecast for tomorrow is rain sweeping in from the east along with a chilly breeze which will continue into the evening.
