

Looking Back on Summer...

Think about your holidays over the summer. Write a recount describing one event that you experienced. Think about the descriptive tools that make your writing engaging. Also include the key questions: who, what, when, where, why, how.

Looking Back on Summer...

Think about your holidays over the summer. Illustrate a recount showing one event that you experienced. Think about the descriptive tools that make your writing engaging. You might want to include pictures that describe the key questions: who, what, when, where, why, how.

Where My Jandals Took Me...

Think about your holidays over the summer. Illustrate a recount showing one event that you experienced. Think about the descriptive tools that make your writing engaging. You might want to include pictures that describe the key questions: who, what, when, where, why, how.

The image shows two identical flip-flop outlines side-by-side. Each flip-flop has a large, rounded toe strap and a heel strap. The main body of the flip-flop is filled with horizontal lines, providing a space for writing a story. The lines are evenly spaced and cover most of the surface area of the flip-flop's footbed.

Where My Jandals Took Me...

Think about your holidays over the summer. Illustrate a recount showing one event that you experienced. Think about the descriptive tools that make your writing engaging. You might want to include pictures that describe the key questions: who, what, when, where, why, how.

I Had a Ball This Summer...

Think about your holidays over the summer. Write a recount describing one event that you experienced. Think about the descriptive tools that make your writing engaging. Also include the key questions: who, what, when, where, why, how.

A large circular writing area with horizontal lines. Inside the circle, there is a smaller circle on the left side, resembling a ball. The lines are spaced evenly and extend across the width of the large circle, with some lines being shorter to accommodate the inner circle.

I Had a Ball This Summer...

Think about your holidays over the summer. Illustrate a recount showing one event that you experienced. Think about the descriptive tools that make your writing engaging. You might want to include pictures that describe the key questions: who, what, when, where, why, how.

